Perspective

*"It enlarges the self to know great art,
to have felt the spell of epic heroisms,
to have swung to the rhythmic pulse
of Homer's strophes,
to have shaken to the passion of Roland or Romeo or Francis of Assisi . . .
to have heard the roll of Drake's drum,
to have been borne on the music stream
of Beethoven's symphonies,
to engrave the prologue to John's Gospel
on the heart,
to have said the sonorous, searching affirmations
of the Nicene Creed."*

"The direction in which will determine his future life." Plato

Freshmen

A FRESHMAN is . . .

the personification of newness and beginnings.

a bundle of little fears and uncertainties cloaked by an air of nonchalance.

a stranger seeking friends

a dropper of books and a finder of wrong rooms.

a believer in the impossible
and the untarnished beautiful.

a wide-eyed child on the threshold of an adult world.

To be a freshman is . . .

to suffer silently the superiority of seniors.

to experience loneliness
interwoven with bright expectation.

to be confused and unstable
yet to accept life's challenge.

to be the hope of the school and the pattern of the future.

New Academic Beginnings

Charts on creation are planned by Joyce Serksnis and Paula Previte.

Marilyn Tomko, Linda Fortney, Karen DiNunzio, and Jeanette Bacon, discover a new exit at Sacred Heart.

Religion students exercise the privilege of a Catholic school. Row I: Mary Campbell, Margaret Cognati, Hazel Cooper, Kathy Delassandro. Row II: Barbara Garisek, Debra Handy, Susan Hart, Lynn Hayek. Row III: Marilyn Kelleher, Marlene Kloczko, Jurate Petraitis, and Marilyn Razek.

Christian Family Living gives future homemakers, Gloria Ruggiero, Margaret Lehmann, and Jeanne Ott, a chance to practice their social graces.

Loretta Toohig referees Latin I gladiators, Cynthia Suopis and Peggy O'Neill.

Homemade models help freshmen to ponder the mystery of the atom. At the board are, Rose M. Kaye and Madelaine Delagado. Row I: Linda Rayner, Debbie Normile, Margaret Bals, sophomore Olga Melaragno. Row II: Mary Shipley, Helen M. Kaye, Maureen Diemert, Jo Ann Bortetics.

Mary Lou Frankford, Margaret Cognati, Rita Yasenovsky, Yasmene Thomas, and Jeanne Dreher locate the stars on the globe for easy viewing at night.

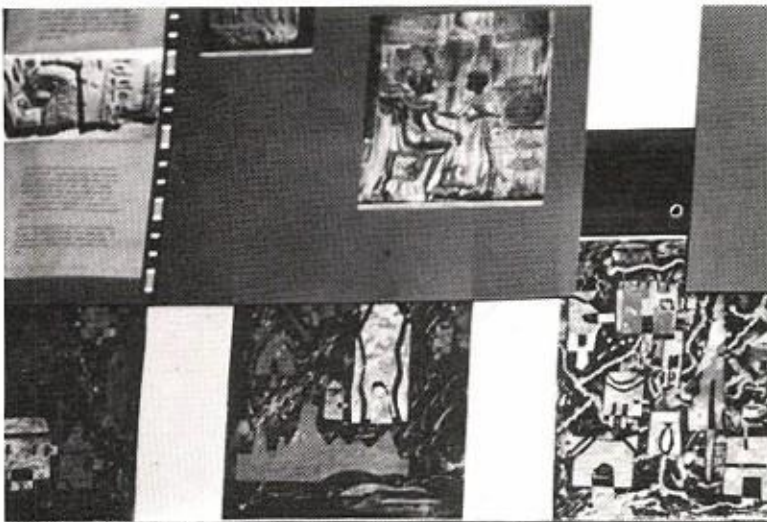

Judy Zgonc, Mary D'Angelo, and Mary Anne Zampino mix fresh food with frosh fun.

New Horizons

Regina Zellhofer, Barbara Bevac, Dorothy Lang, and Lacey Burton learn to appreciate the "Sound of Music."

Artists Gloria Walkush and Frances Tearpak solve a design problem in building stepped cities.

Vida Greer, Gail Bankston, and Anne DiRocco discover new facts about old friends on the number line.

Julie Tamoney and Marilyn Miklus try to figure out the specifics of general math.

New Experiences

Jerylyn Vender, Maris Klem, Anne Jackson, and Mildred Jordan listen intently while Sister introduces the new math.

Kathy McKee, Linda Ketchum, Susan Freeman, Linda Lackner, Nancy Gramc, Laura Lipp, and Laura Jurko try for a chance at sweeping Ursuline's chimney!

Arlene Maksymowicz shares a secret with a friend.

Finding the Home Ec steps a convenient spot for "crazy eights" are Row 1: Louise Sbrocca, Rita Yondo, Mary Ann Kordic, Eileen Farley; Row 2: Vivian Stoss, Kathleen Zaidinski, Catherine Reichenbach, and Kathleen Varkala.

By helping with cupcakes at the card party, Mary Kay Reilly and Edith Herman gain hostess experience.

Security is a Big Sister

Patience, Lacey; in four years it will be your turn.

It's usually the frosh who get in the seniors' hair.

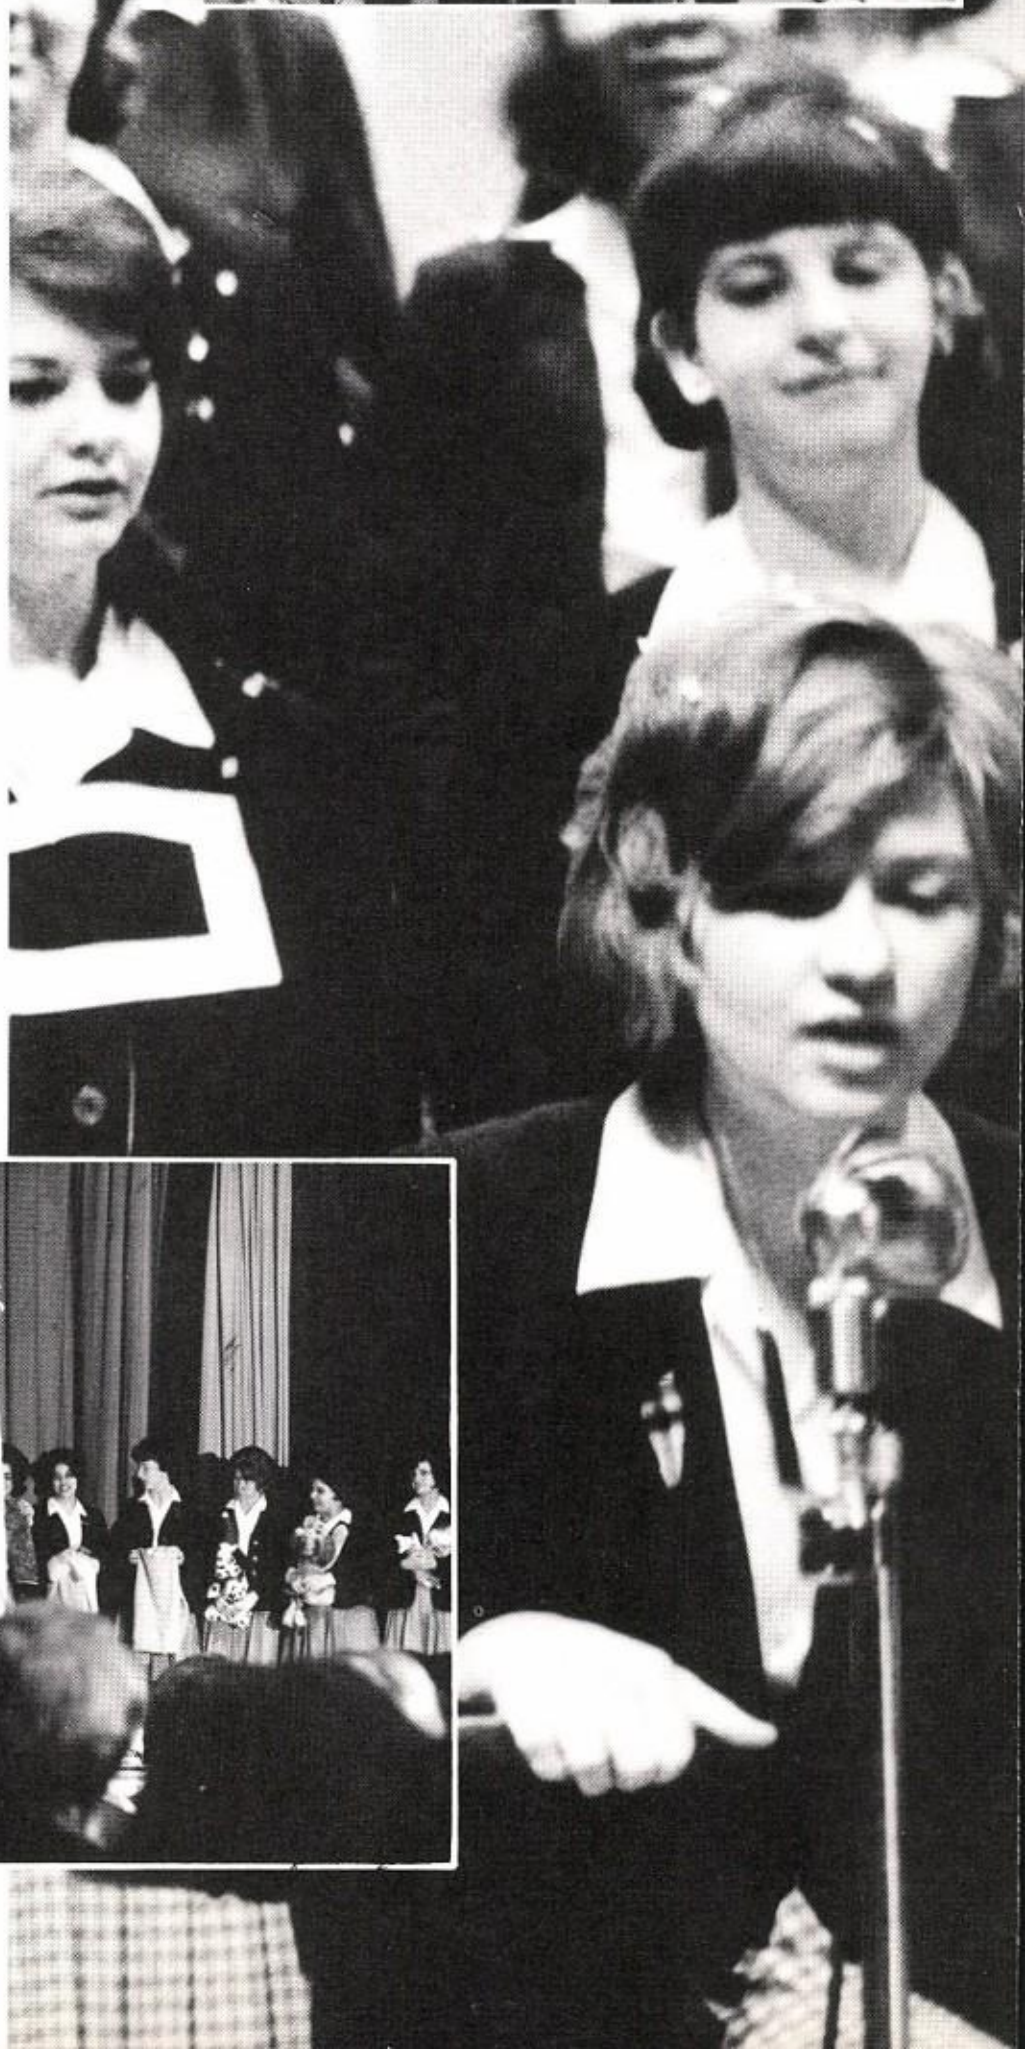

Paula and Noel keep everything under control as . . . two lonely freshmen wonder at . . . a line-up for inspection . . . a friendly stomp . . . and a bedtime story.

Little Sister Day is patiently tolerated by Madelaine as Barb gleefully watches.

*Working on a yearbook
is . . .
worrying
and rallying
and waiting
and cheering
and winning.
It is a team striving for a goal
from convocation
to commencement.*

Activities Sharpen Awareness

The Cleveland Orchestra group brings entertainment and instruction to a cultural assembly.

Father D'Augustino and Father Hammer demonstrate the Mass in English.

"The Lord be with you."

Father Pritt narrates as the Epistle, a major part of the Liturgy of the Word, is read.

Foreign travel and government service are highlighted by Miss Rosemary Bland.

"We've grown accustomed to her face." The students enthusiastically receive Miss Mary Louise Hickey's presentation of Pygmalion.

Ursuline's homecoming candidates, Mary and Linda, add charm and beauty to St. Joe's Vikings.

Support is generously given by Beth and Carol to the United Appeal drive.

Linda and Kathy arrange a "united appeal" through campaign charts.

Sister William tells Margy about her work at Holy Family Cancer Home.

Sisters in the symposium explain the role of the nun in the modern world.

A teaching sister of the Immaculate Heart of Mary leads a question and answer period in the library.

Vocational exhibits help to acquaint the girls with the work of each order.

Vocation Day Increases Understanding

Sisters from different orders meet in an ecumenical spirit.

Two young postulants tell why they followed Him.

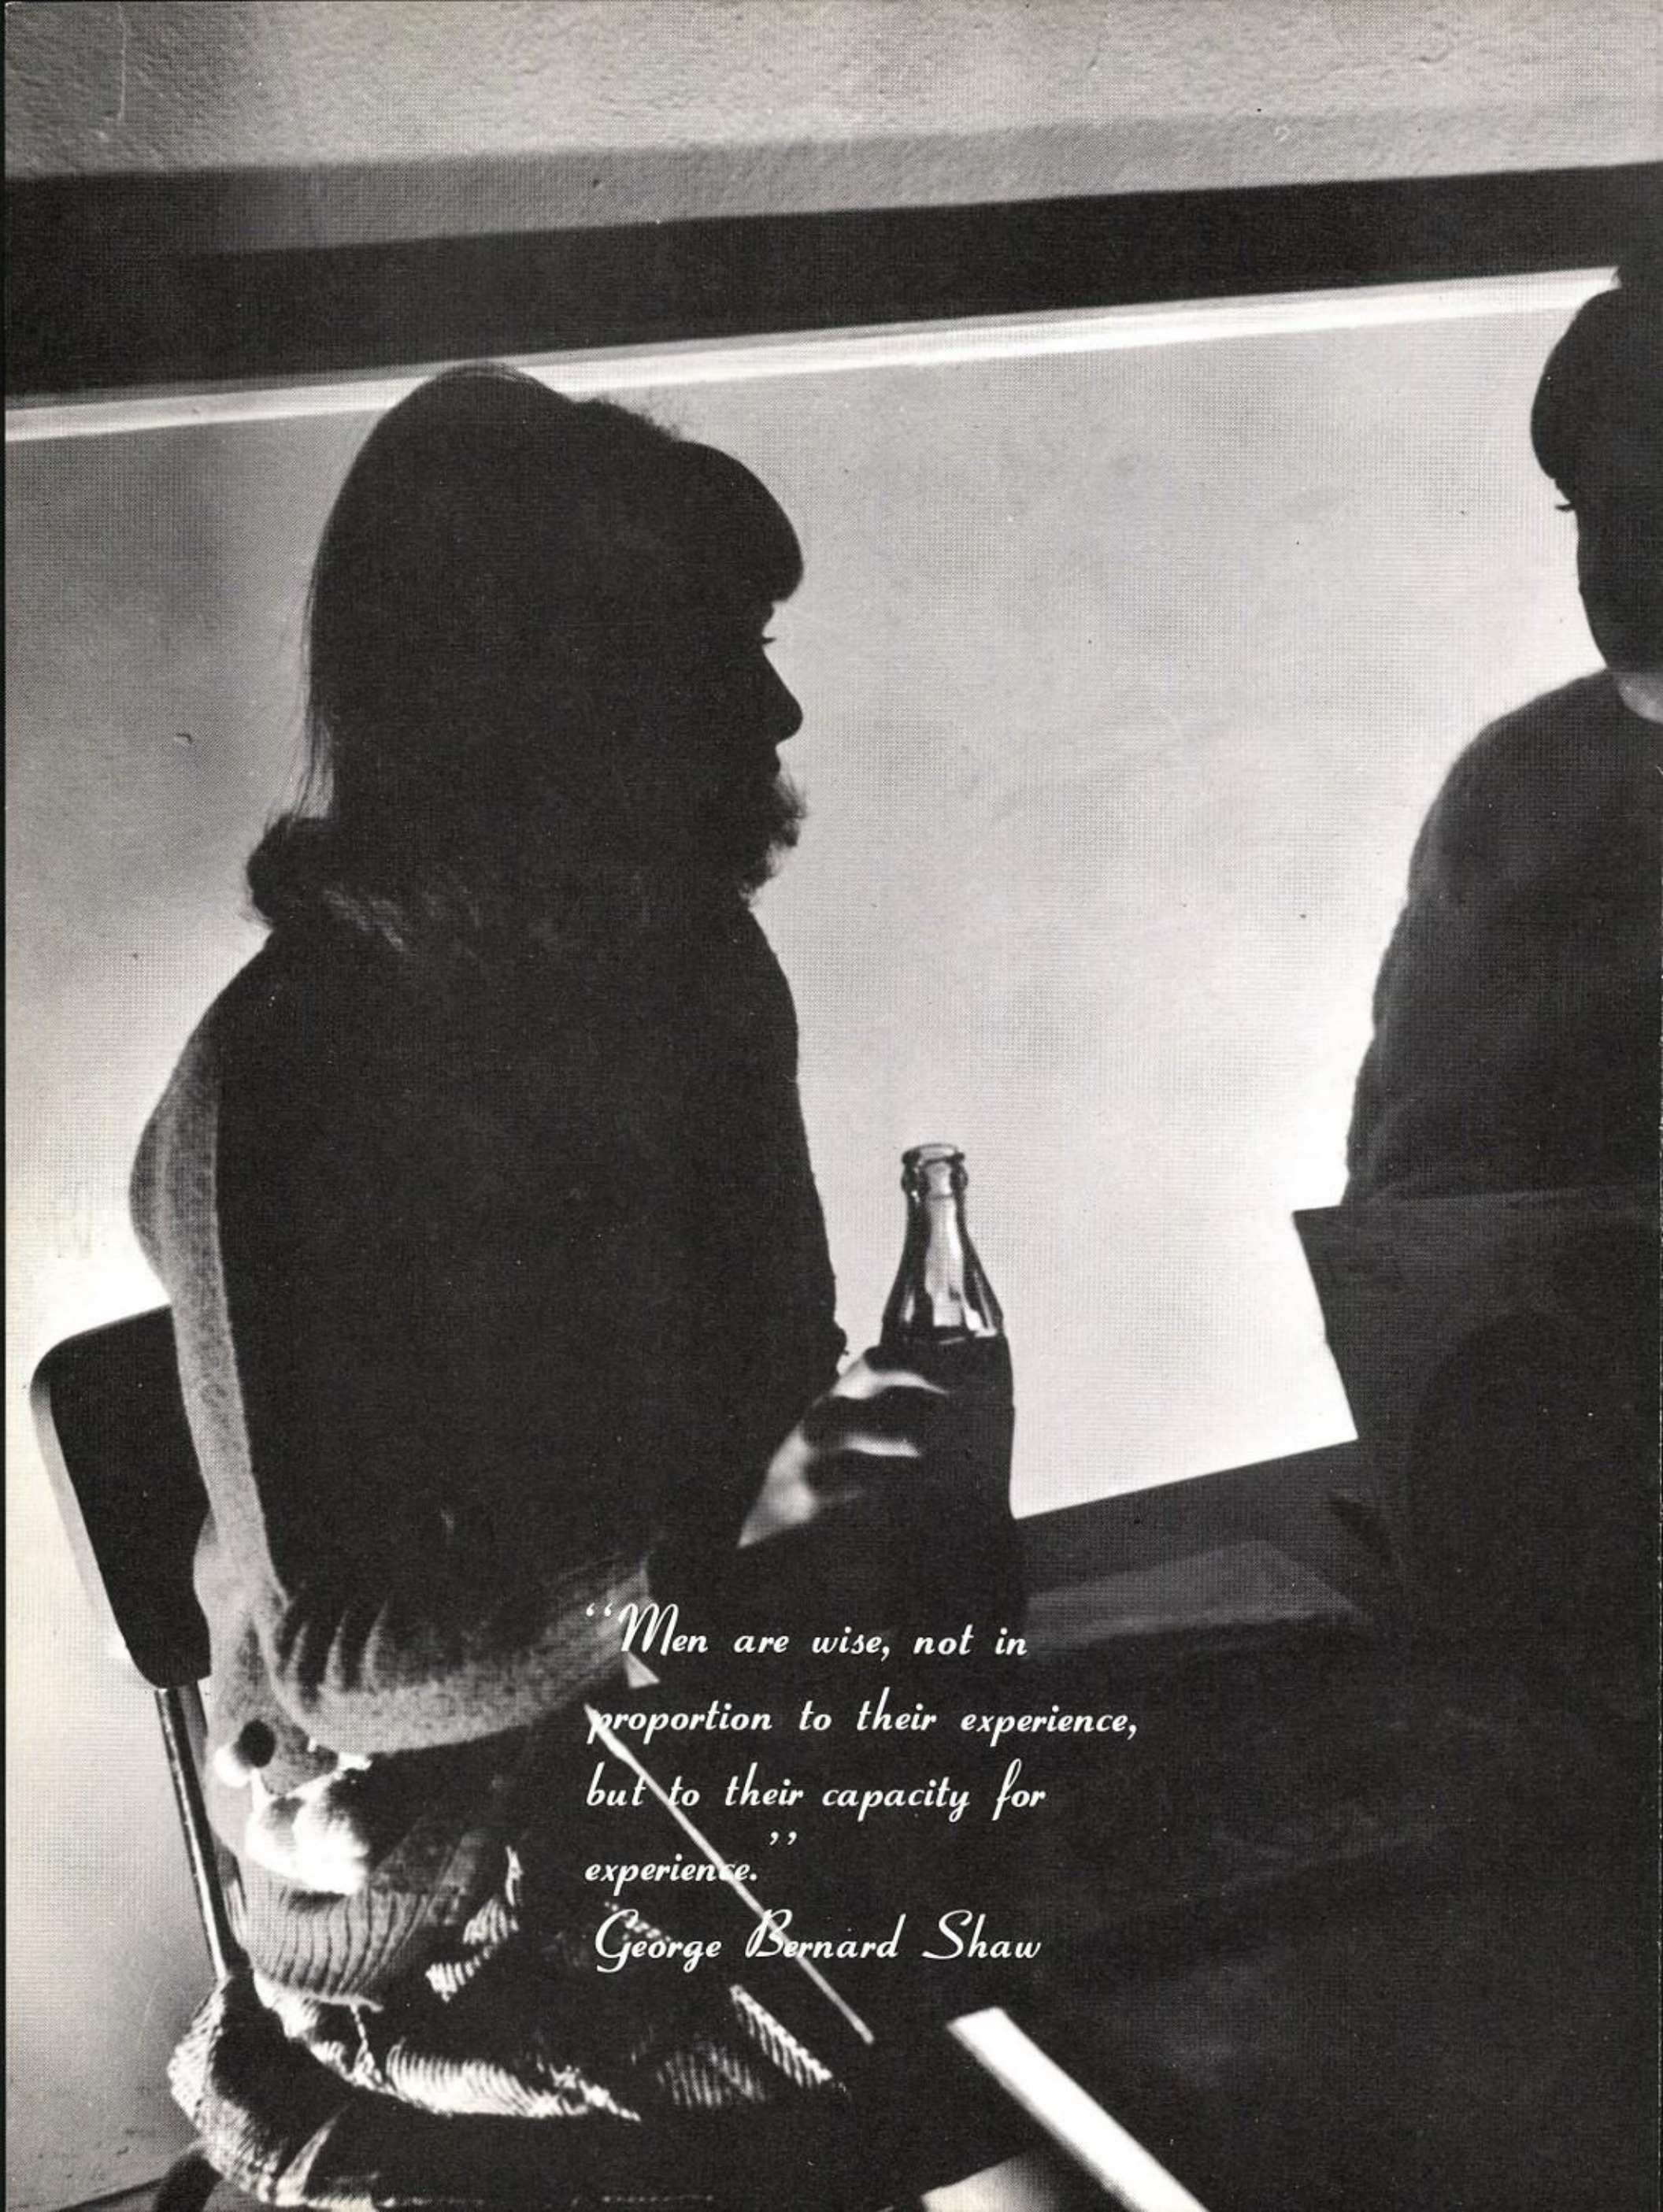

At lunch the sisters enjoy refreshments and an opportunity to exchange ideas.

Nuns from St. Alexis Hospital discuss the work of the nursing sister.

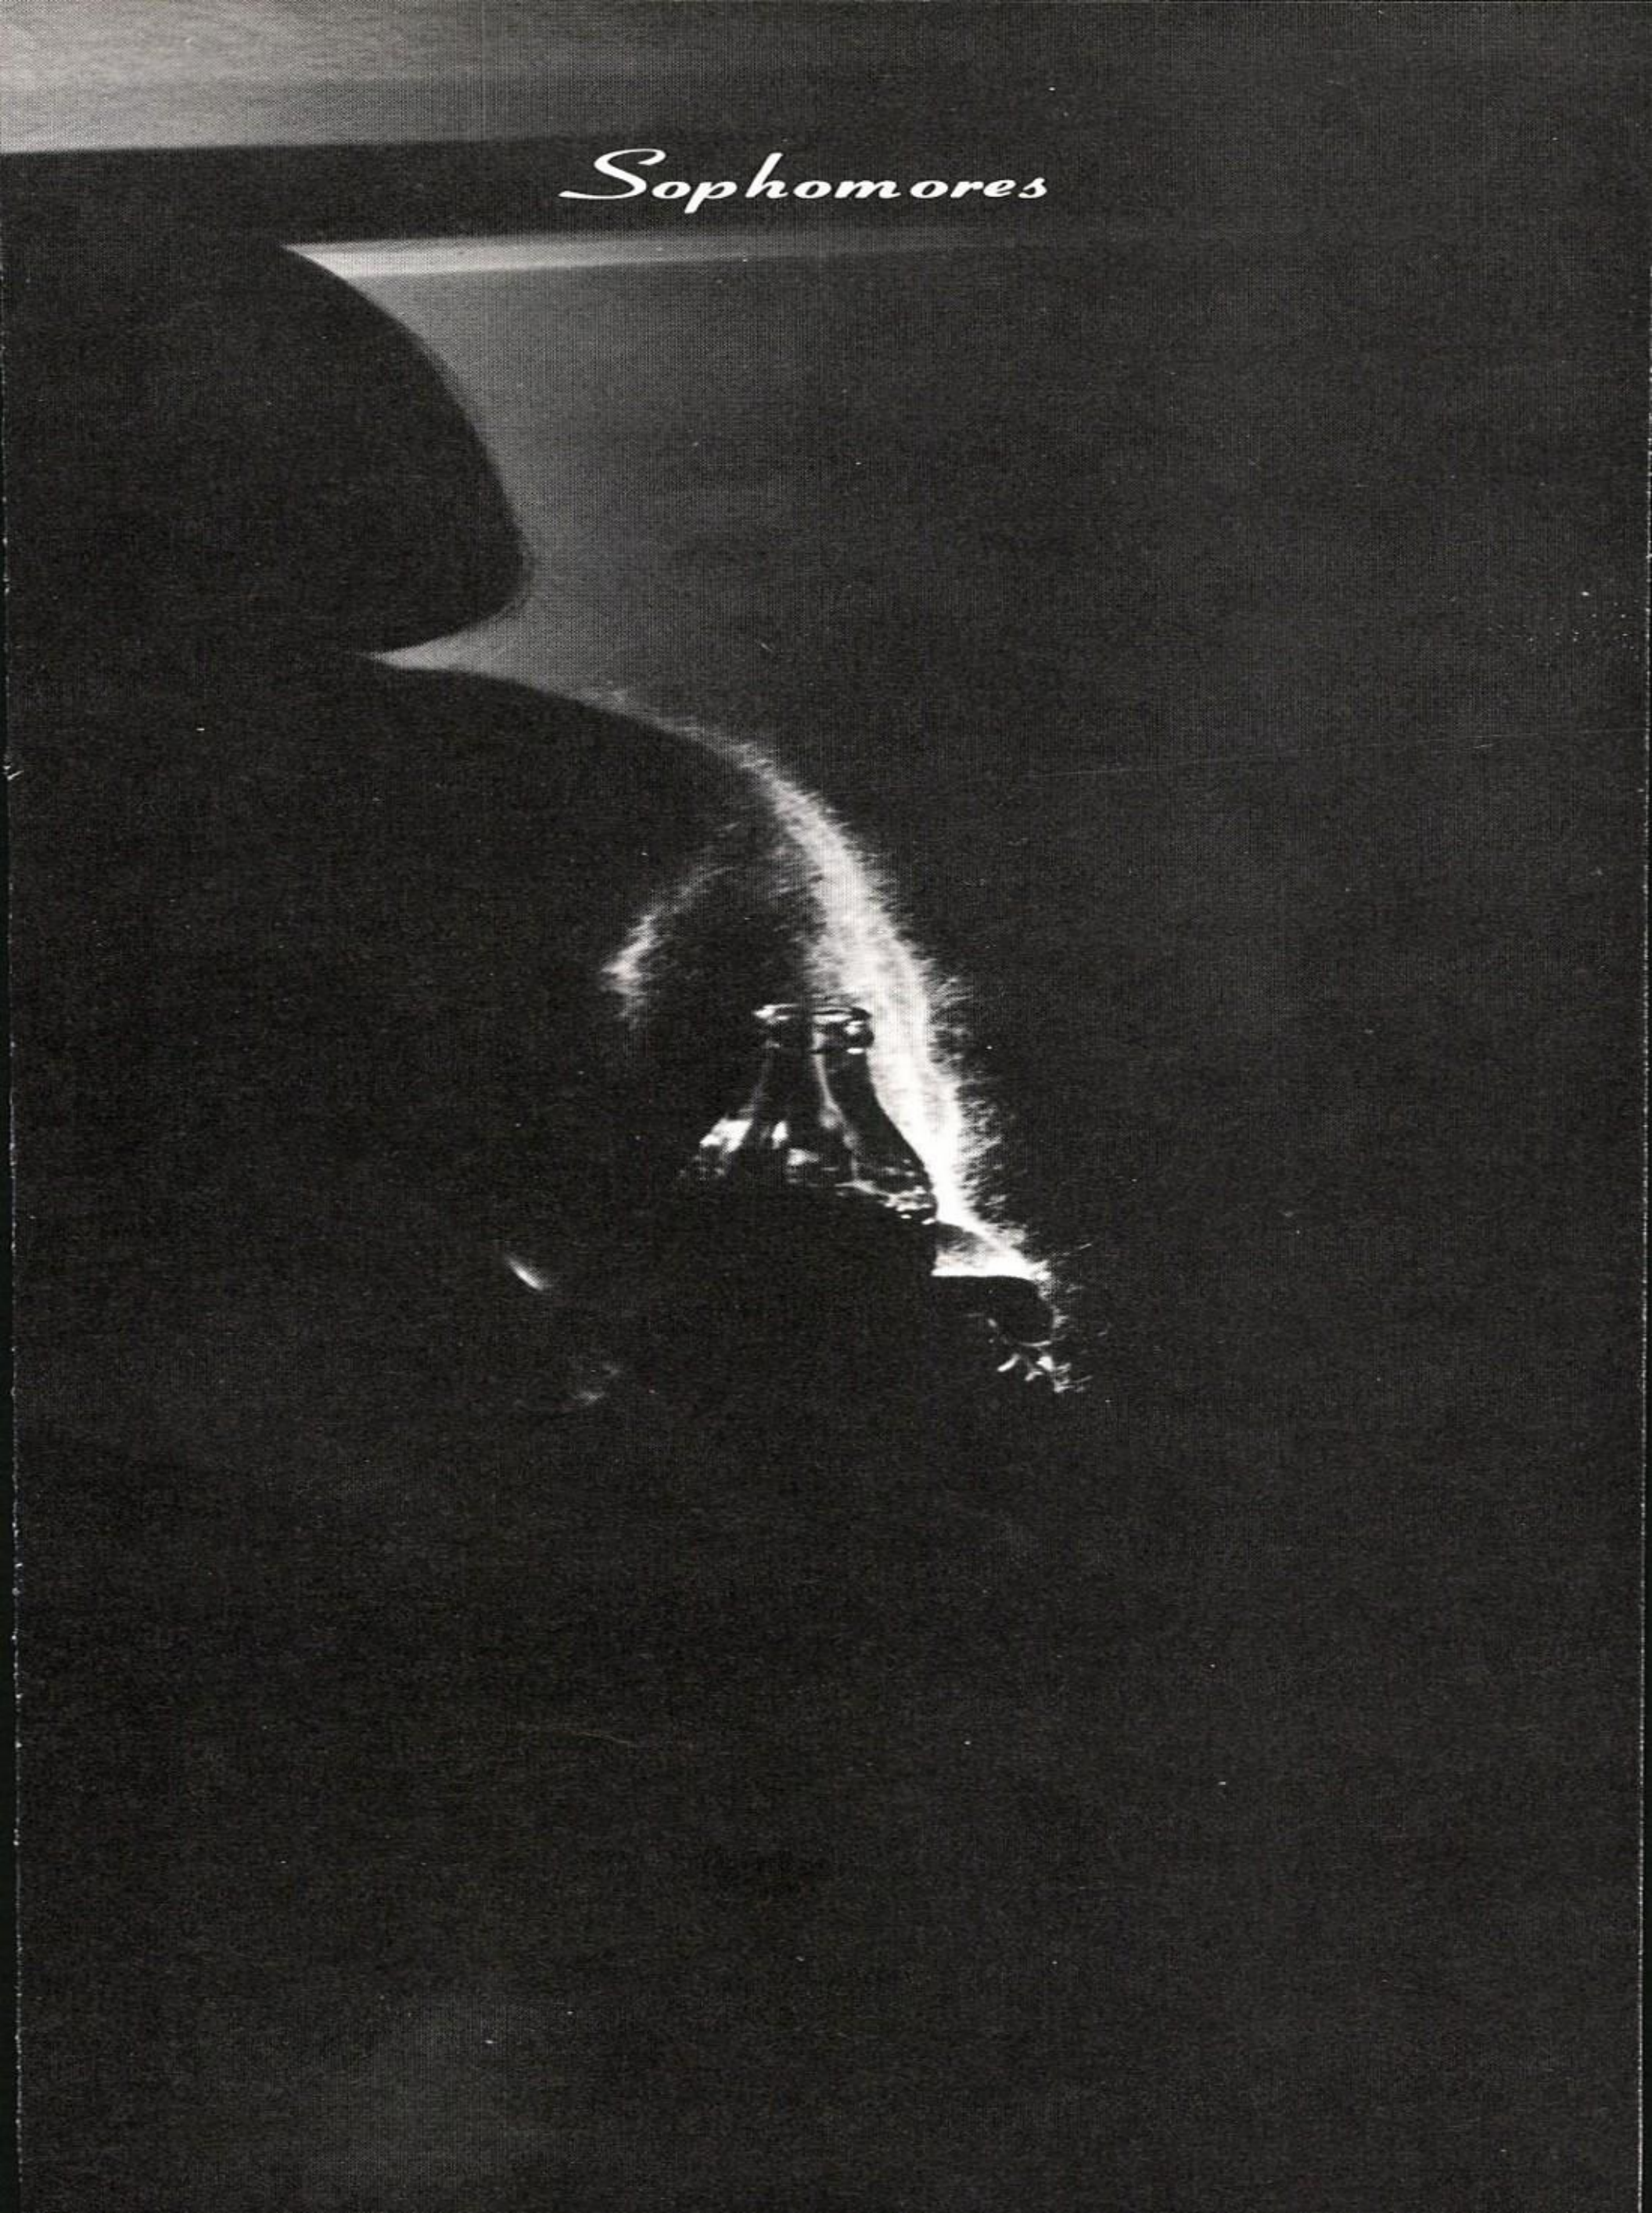

Sister addresses the student body on the need for vocations.

"Men are wise, not in proportion to their experience, but to their capacity for experience."

George Bernard Shaw

Sophomores

A SOPHOMORE is . . .

a girl with a comforting
sense of belonging.

a superior being smiling
from her height on the woes of the frosh.

an insignificant member of the school whose rough edges are being polished for the years to come.

a bundle of contradictory views that she does not hesitate to proclaim.

a rebel to whom few things
in life seem right.

To be a sophomore is . . .

to find study overwhelming
and more than a little inhibiting.

to become upset too
quickly and to cry with embarrassing ease.

to be filled with longing
but to understand only dimly
what is missing.

to envy the privileges of upperclassmen yet to be without real ambition.

to imitate the crowd but
to be wise enough to hate oneself
for doing so.

to be confused about oneself and about the whole wide world.

School Is Lovelier The Second Time Around

Patricia Livingston, Donna McCarthy, and Andrea Kasperczak lead the Bible Vigil procession into the auditorium.

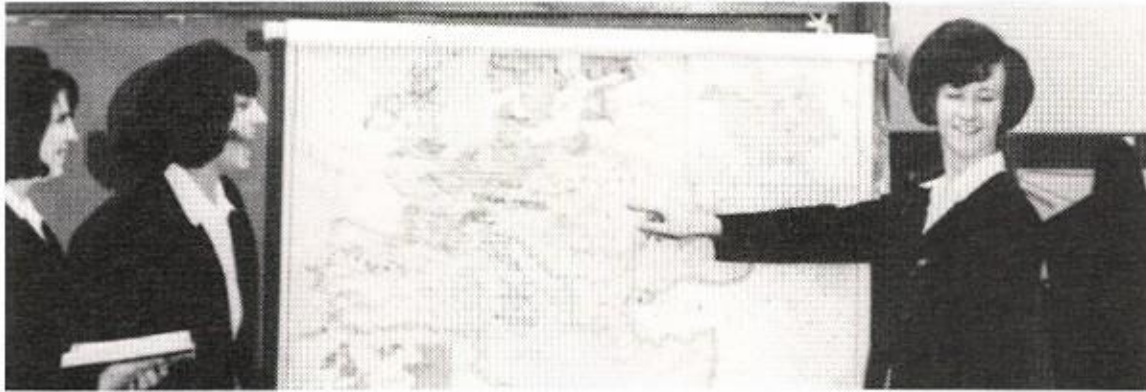

Olga Melaragno, Gail Patek, Jean Nahra, Amale Nahara, Marie Murmann, and Janice Roccosalvo sing hymns in the spirit of the liturgy.

Practical application of Christian teaching is made in the homily given by Susan Serksnis. Left to right: Margaret O'Neill, Patricia Toth, Lynn Tartaglia, Mary Taylor, Lillian Wallace.

Watching the history of the Kremlin come alive on our educational television screen are Kathleen Haffey and Marguerite Monda.

Linda Di Francesco, Jean Jenda, and Andrea Brinovec dream of that A in geometry.

By their measurements Carole Klott, Marlene Petrosky, Mary Eileen Boyle, and Judith Linn find that Christine Thomas wears a size nine shoe.

Donna D'Arcangelo carefully examines the huge plastic flower while Donna Calabrese is more interested in the real bean sprouts. Carol Console, Elaine Clark, Sandra Brunkala, and Barbara Albert look on with interest.

B. S. C. S. Biology Comes to Ursuline

Watering the seeds is another step toward the growth of their tobacco garden for Alberta D'Ercole, Lynn Keegan, Barbara Matteo, and Cynthia Gilmore.

Judith Pestello and Christine Rajcsak discover the intricate workings of the human body with the help of this model.

Examining the skeletal formation of a frog are Cheryl Leighty, Susan Scheff, and Linda Sipos.

In this experiment Mary Kingzett, Janet Helegda, and Kathy Shantz learn the effects of carbon dioxide on limewater.

"Look out world, here I come," says Chicken Little as he emerges from his shell inside Ursuline's hatchery.

This year Sacred Heart introduced into its curriculum the new BSCS course which presents sciences in depth. Noreen Zupancic, Theresa Ross, Mary Lou Mekker, Mary Lou Mirl, and Michele Santoriello perform one of the many experiments offered in the lab manual.

Hearing drama enacted makes English more meaningful for Louise von Schill and Anne Farley.

Success is the fruit of hard work for Janet Majer as Patricia Mobley and Kathleen Krajcirik find her dress a perfect fit.

Miss Shambock gives Audrey Latine, Mary Zingales, and Diane Lenzo a helping hand in English.

Familiar Patterns

Patricia Spik shows Anne Kofol, Linda Tatalick, and Mary Waltman that Roma est Aeterna.

"The photographer will snap us, and we'll find that we're . . ." in Perspective. Left to right: Deborah Collins, Jo Ann Bremer, Marian Dracar, Mary Jo Kosmac, Mary Ann Dobrzeniecki, Theresa Dottore, Maureen Dever, Gail Francioli, Kathryn Keller.

A new group in gym, Maureen Shea, Julia Linn, Kathleen Skrinjar, and Noreen May make up the "Mary Poppins Four."

Christine Favorite has "High Hopes" as Margaret Davey, Marilyn Argie, and Cassie Conti watch her take the ball from Mary Ellen Fiorilli.

The Senior Class presents Moliere's The Affected Young Ladies. The satirical line: "Are we to allow our footmen to be better received than we? Shall they come here and make love to you — and give you a ball?" summarizes the plot, which is a take-off on romantic courtship.

Comedy the French Way

"Merely a hasty ball. Before long, we must have a magnificent party."

As Marotte looks on, Georgibus howls, "See where your outlandish ideas have brought you. Hide yourselves, and your crackpot notions and your verses, and novels, and sonnets, and all that nonsense!"

"The world is cruel . . . come, comrade, let us seek our fortunes elsewhere. We were accepted here only for our appearance!!"

"... your fame has brought upon the visitation of the poor mortal before you."

Mary Ann and Darlene provide musical background for the play.

"Would you have me expose my feathers to the inclemency of the rainy season?
Would you have me place the imprint of my shoe upon the mud?"

Juniors, Kay and Gail, sing for the seniors' supper as they try to raise spirits and money for the Junior-Senior Banquet. "Do your shoes need a shine?"

In the skit Barb, playing a boy, doesn't even notice beautiful Marlene because her shoes aren't shined.

Estelle goes into action as Ursuline's shoe shine opens for business.

"Let the word go forth . . ." Mary Boomer speaks of President Kennedy in a special assembly dedicated to his memory given by the Glee Club.

Moms and Dads bid and raise at the annual card party.

The Co-Curricular Whirl

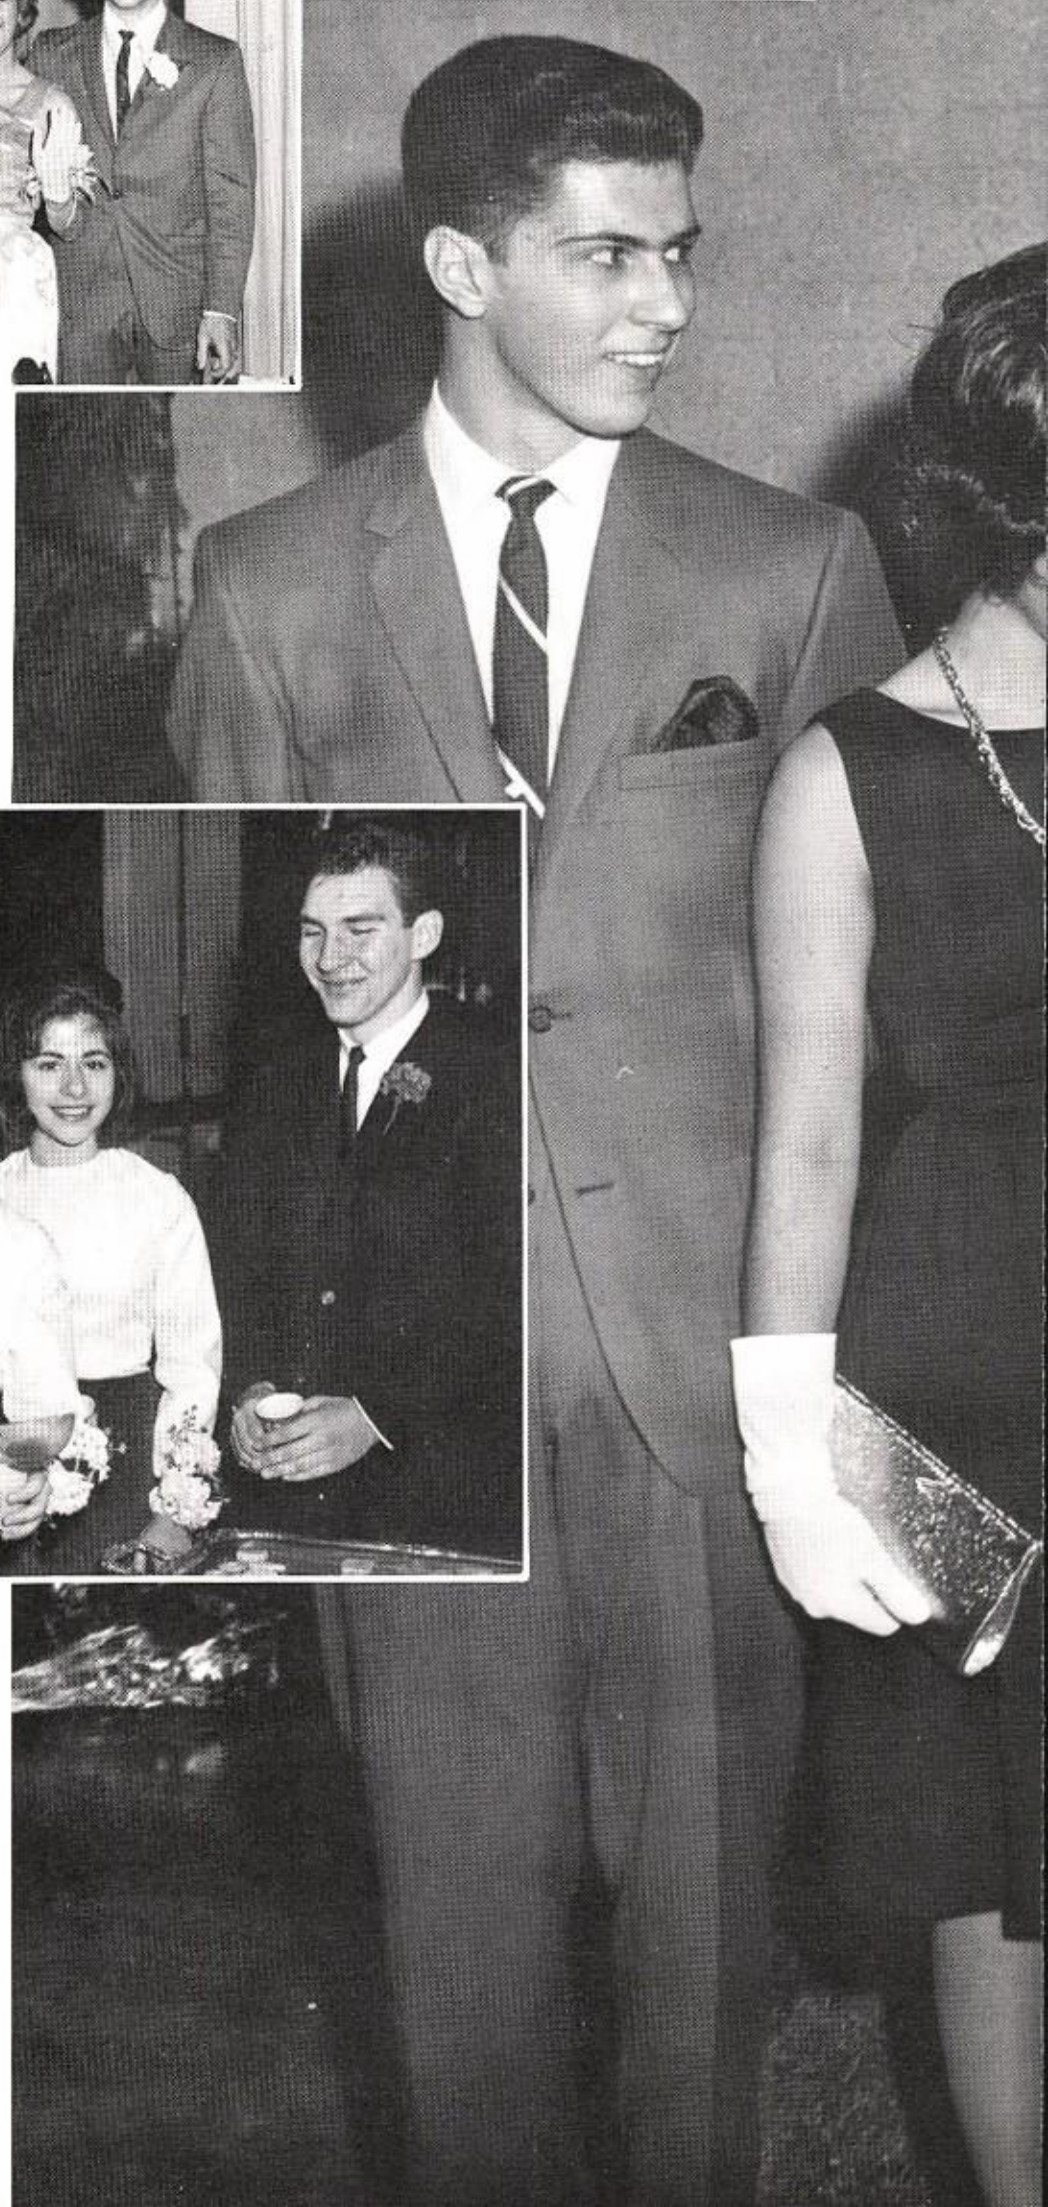

Rita, Marilyn, Debbie, and Anne make up the efficient serving corps.

Big business at Ursuline: Members of the Dads' Club busily check the stubs.

Tonight even Sister Marie Rosaire gets K. P. duty.

*A Yuletide Dance

'Tis the season for quiet talk and soft music . . . friendly companionship . . . glad tidings.

Dancing at a Swiss Chalet

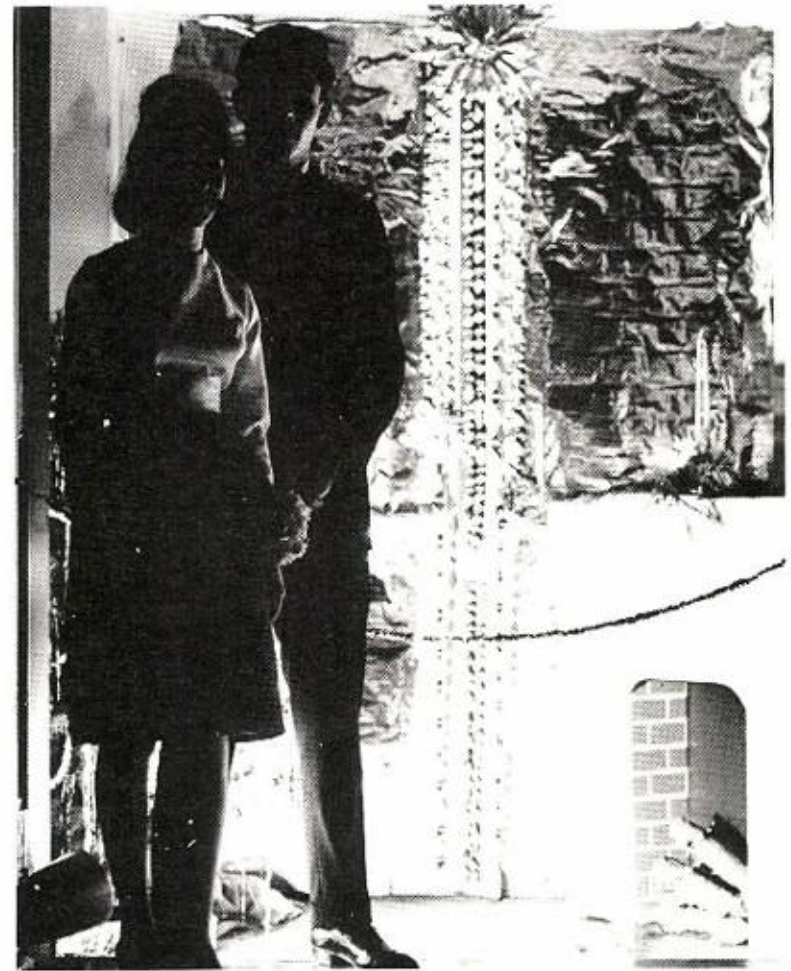

"And I thought she was my date!"

Betty and Lou start off the New Year right
by being together.

Fran and Bob chat as Lillian watches for reindeer.

The warmth and glow of the Christmas Ball.

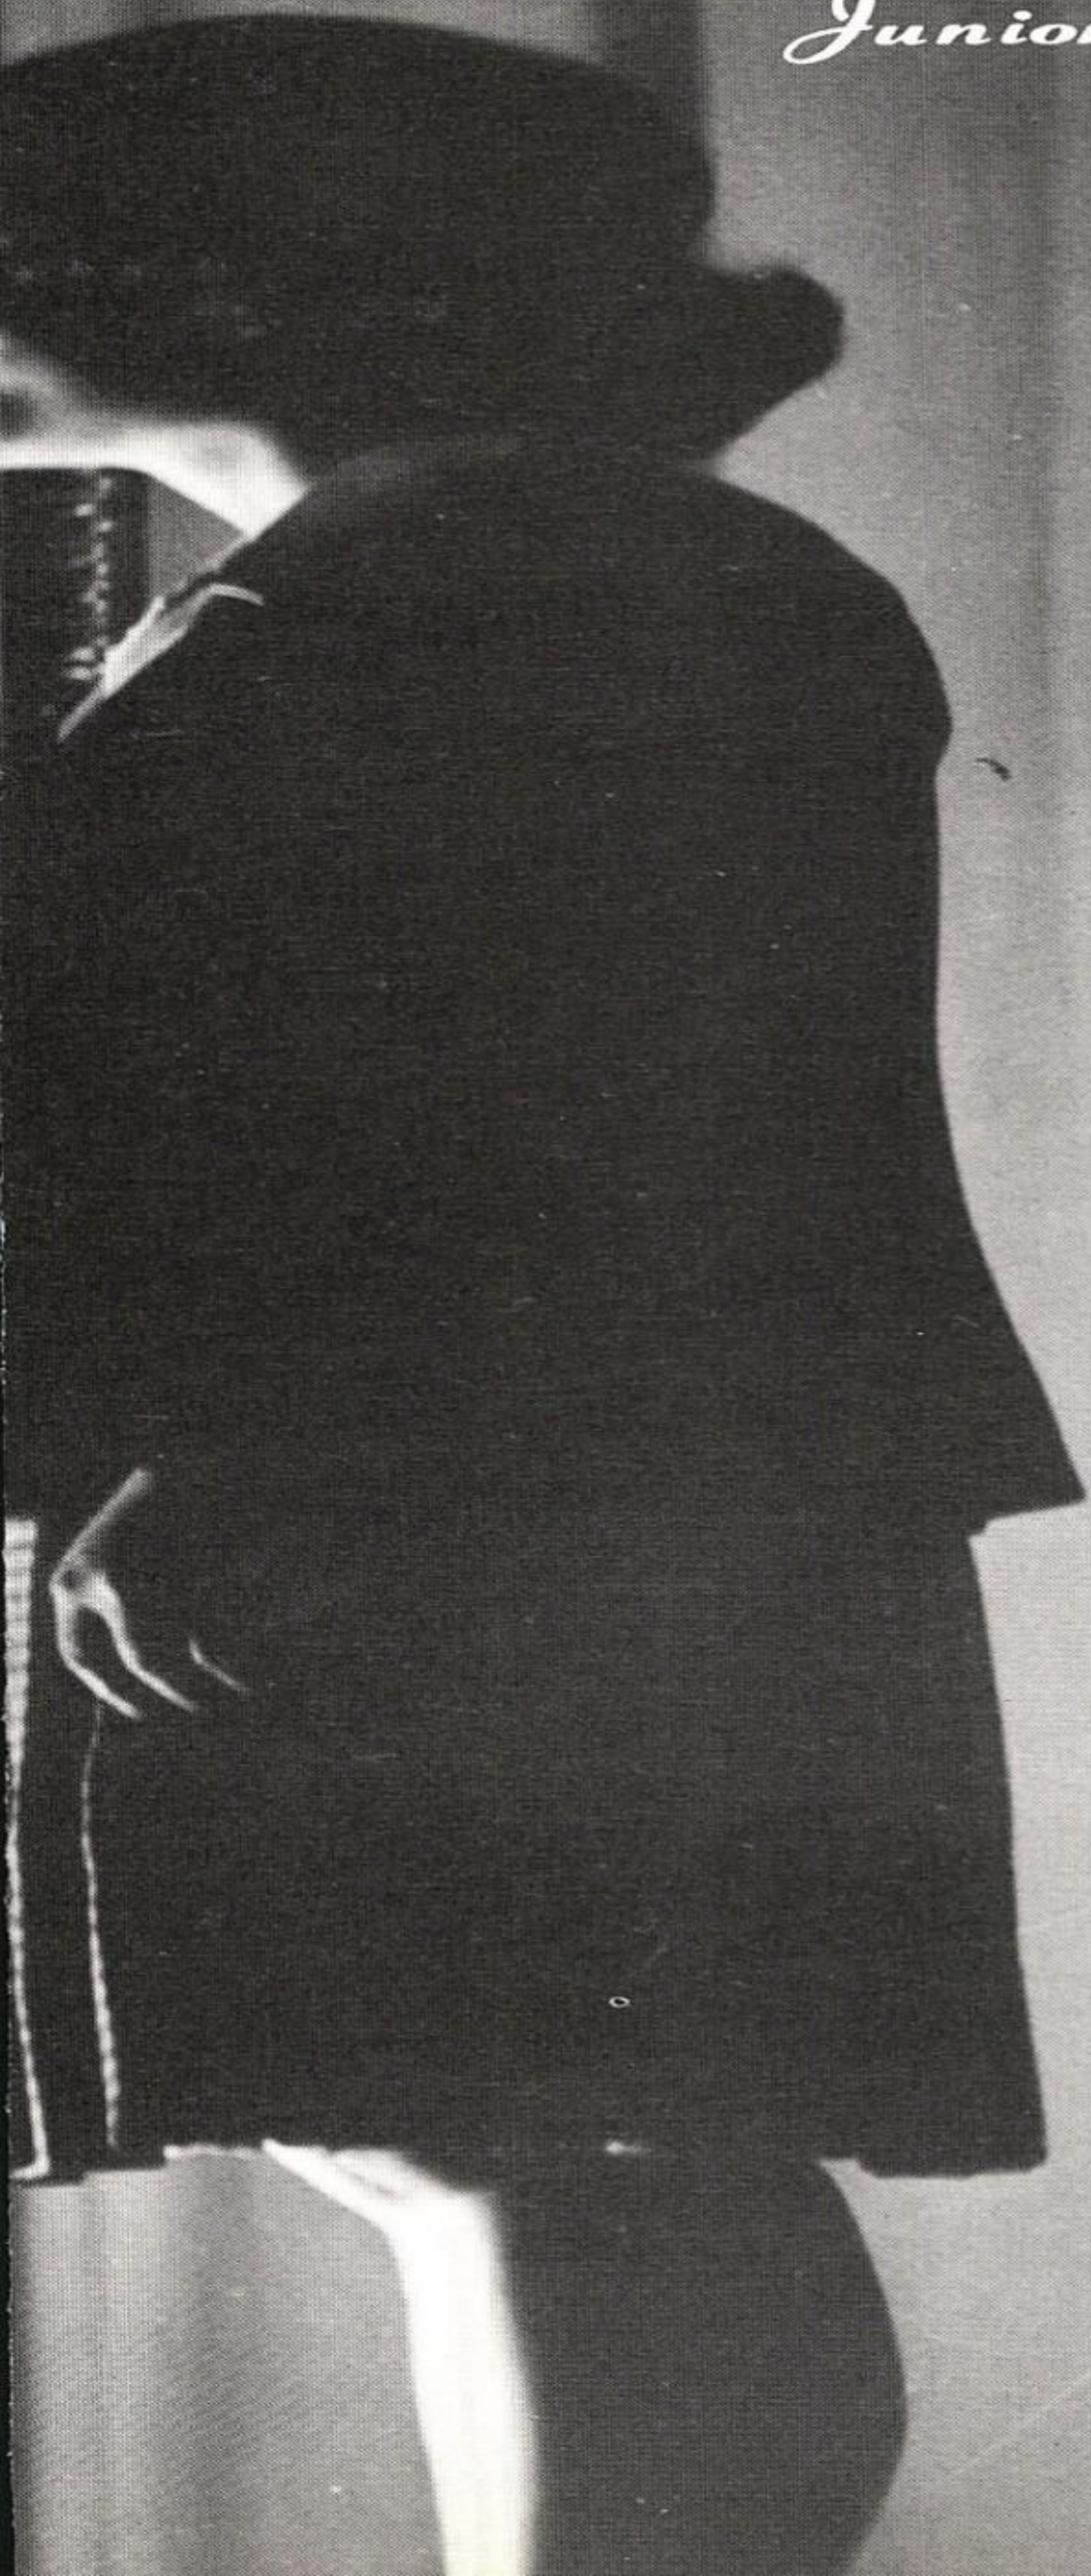

"In the air there's a feeling of Christmas" for Paula and Brian.

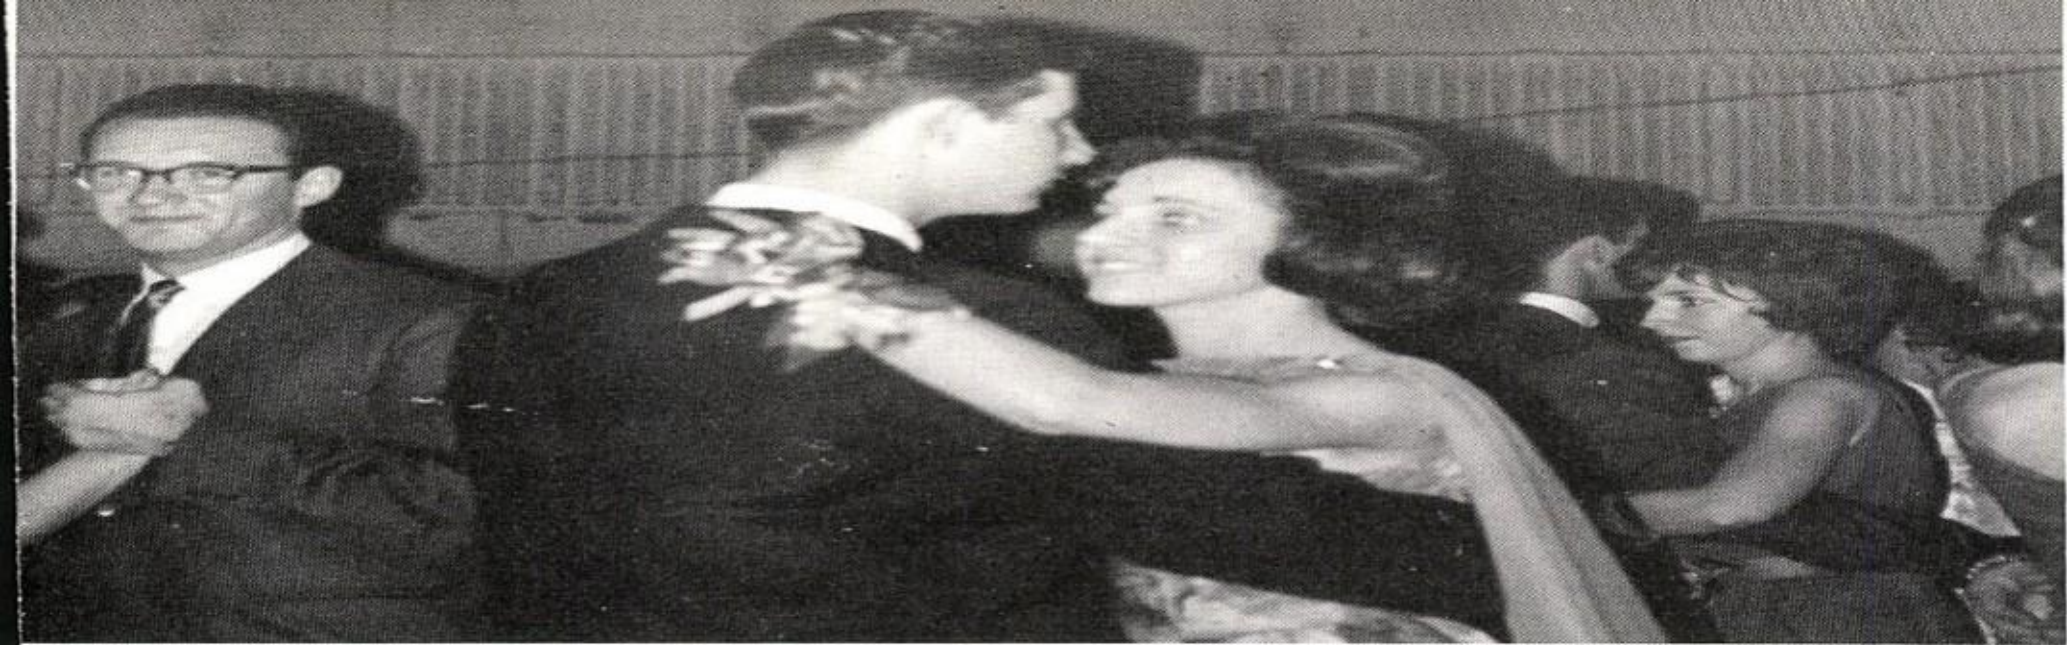

*"Reach high, for stars
lie hidden in your soul.
Dream deep, for every dream
precedes the goal."*

Pamela Vaull Starr

Juniors

A JUNIOR is . . .

an upperclassman conscious of the dignity of her new rank.

a girl whose actions foreshadow the poised womanhood
soon to be hers.

a student approaching study with the ease of long practice.

an excited participant at school dances and proms.

To be a junior is . . .

to assume the responsibility of sponsoring school affairs.

to endure the hectic
pressures of a decorating committee for the first time.

to experience the thrill
of being elected to a club office.

to be in that enviable strata between the insecurities of the past and the need of a life decision still in the future.

to live in sure anticipation
of the glory of the senior year.

Barbara Terchek and Valerie Medvec explore the intriguing world of chemistry by watching the process of distillation.

Precisely measuring chemicals and cautiously following procedure, Jackie Gallagher, Judith Keller, and Kathleen Kovalsky plan to complete this experiment without the help of the Red Cross.

Suzanne Vranich hopes that Mary Weisbarth knows what the result of her concoction will be.

In Junior Style, No Midnight Oil

With the help of Lucretia Abbott, Janice Zupancic traces the route of the early explorers.

A colorful discussion led by Marsha Gramc helps Daria Tansky, Carole Leiblinger, Nancy Kelleher, Carol Rainone, and Dorothy Palmer to air their views on national problems.

Pictures and charts help to make religion more real for Andrea Thomas, Mary Ann Molnar, and Mary Fakult.

During a lecture in religion class, these girls give their cheerful attention to Sister. They are Patricia Sbrocco, Carolyn Violi, and Ellen Barrett.

Hopeful Hearts Junior Optimists

In Row 1 are Barbara Hach, Mary Kolk, Doris Strancar, Mildred Rinaldi, Sandra Dottore, and Esther Lackowski. Row 2: Jeanette Lazar, Joanne Toohig, Marlene Casar, Ann Tober, Sally Skipley, Linda Gardner, Marcia Boyd, Sally Ann Freemal, Kathleen Ganey, Joyce Bremer, and Diane Hunera. Absent: Margaret De Lauer, Noreen Garriga, and Margaret Kearns.

This early morning scene is not so peaceful during the 3:00 rush as Mary Jo Miro, Cindy Streetz, Joanne DeMichele, and Donna Cogan will tell you. Absent: Mildred Zorman.

Jo Ann Batulewick dictates a math problem to Donna Gornik under the watchful eyes of Donna Curtis, Lenore O'Reilly, Kathy Wilson, and Jean Weber.

Juniors, Sandy Shaw, Gail Maitland, Mary Ann Tritola, Mary Lapin, Terry Pallo, and Kay Rado climb to their next step—Seniors!

Juniors in Mother and Baby Care class learn how to hold and feed an infant. These future mothers are Ellen Mullin, Cathy Petsche, Barbara Rupert, Mary Jo Reister, and Rosemary Conway.

Julie Summers gingerly holds "the baby" while demonstrating bathing techniques to Kathleen Roccasalvo, Estelle Argie, Patricia White and Donna Zingale.

Junior Class

Ann Wojnar is one very hardworking junior as she waits for the bell to ring.

Elizabeth Schreiner and Barbara Sumas attempt to act out a scene from their literature book with coaching from Nancy Deleese.

Mary Kay Kellner has one last question while Rose Marie Fulton, Judith Hanson, Elaine Fortney, and Mary Huber prepare for a timing.

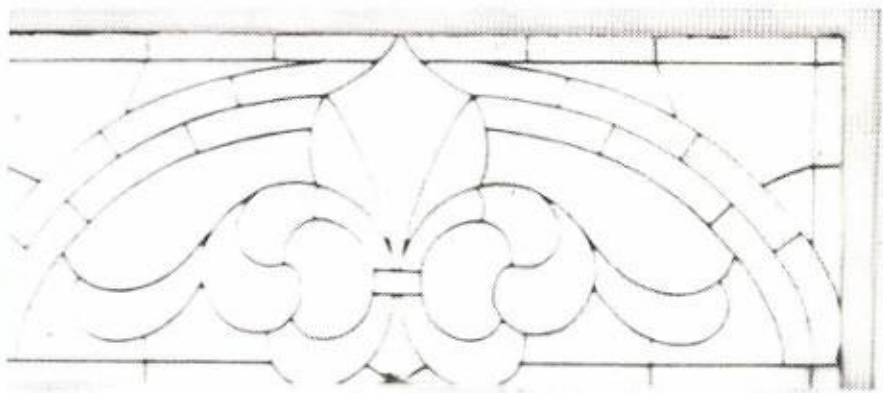

Aspiring secretary Bonnie Beach concentrates on her speed and accuracy.

Jo Reichenbach and Judy Jonke improve their French pronunciation by listening to native speakers.

Recordings of French songs bring an atmosphere of French culture to the classroom for Janet Yasenovsky, Constance Fuhry, Joan Jacob, Carol Staskus, and Andrea von Schill.

A Ring Ceremony is . . .

*pride
and loyalty
and prestige.
It is an important step toward the responsibilities
of the future.
It is a symbol of the spirit
of a class —
unique,
never to be repeated —
as special as the 1966 on the ring.*

We were pleased to welcome Cathedral Latin's band to our school for the first time. Here they are led in a medley from My Fair Lady led by Mr. Van Bergen.

Cultural Enrichment Through Music, Drama, and Literature

Sister Michael Francis from Ursuline College impresses the seniors with a history of the modern short story.

Some of the boys from St. Joe's solo in "Clarinet Candy."

Mr. Novak and the band bow before a most appreciative audience.

"Win now, take your triumph now, for I'll win men's hearts in the end — though the sifting takes this hundred years or a thousand."

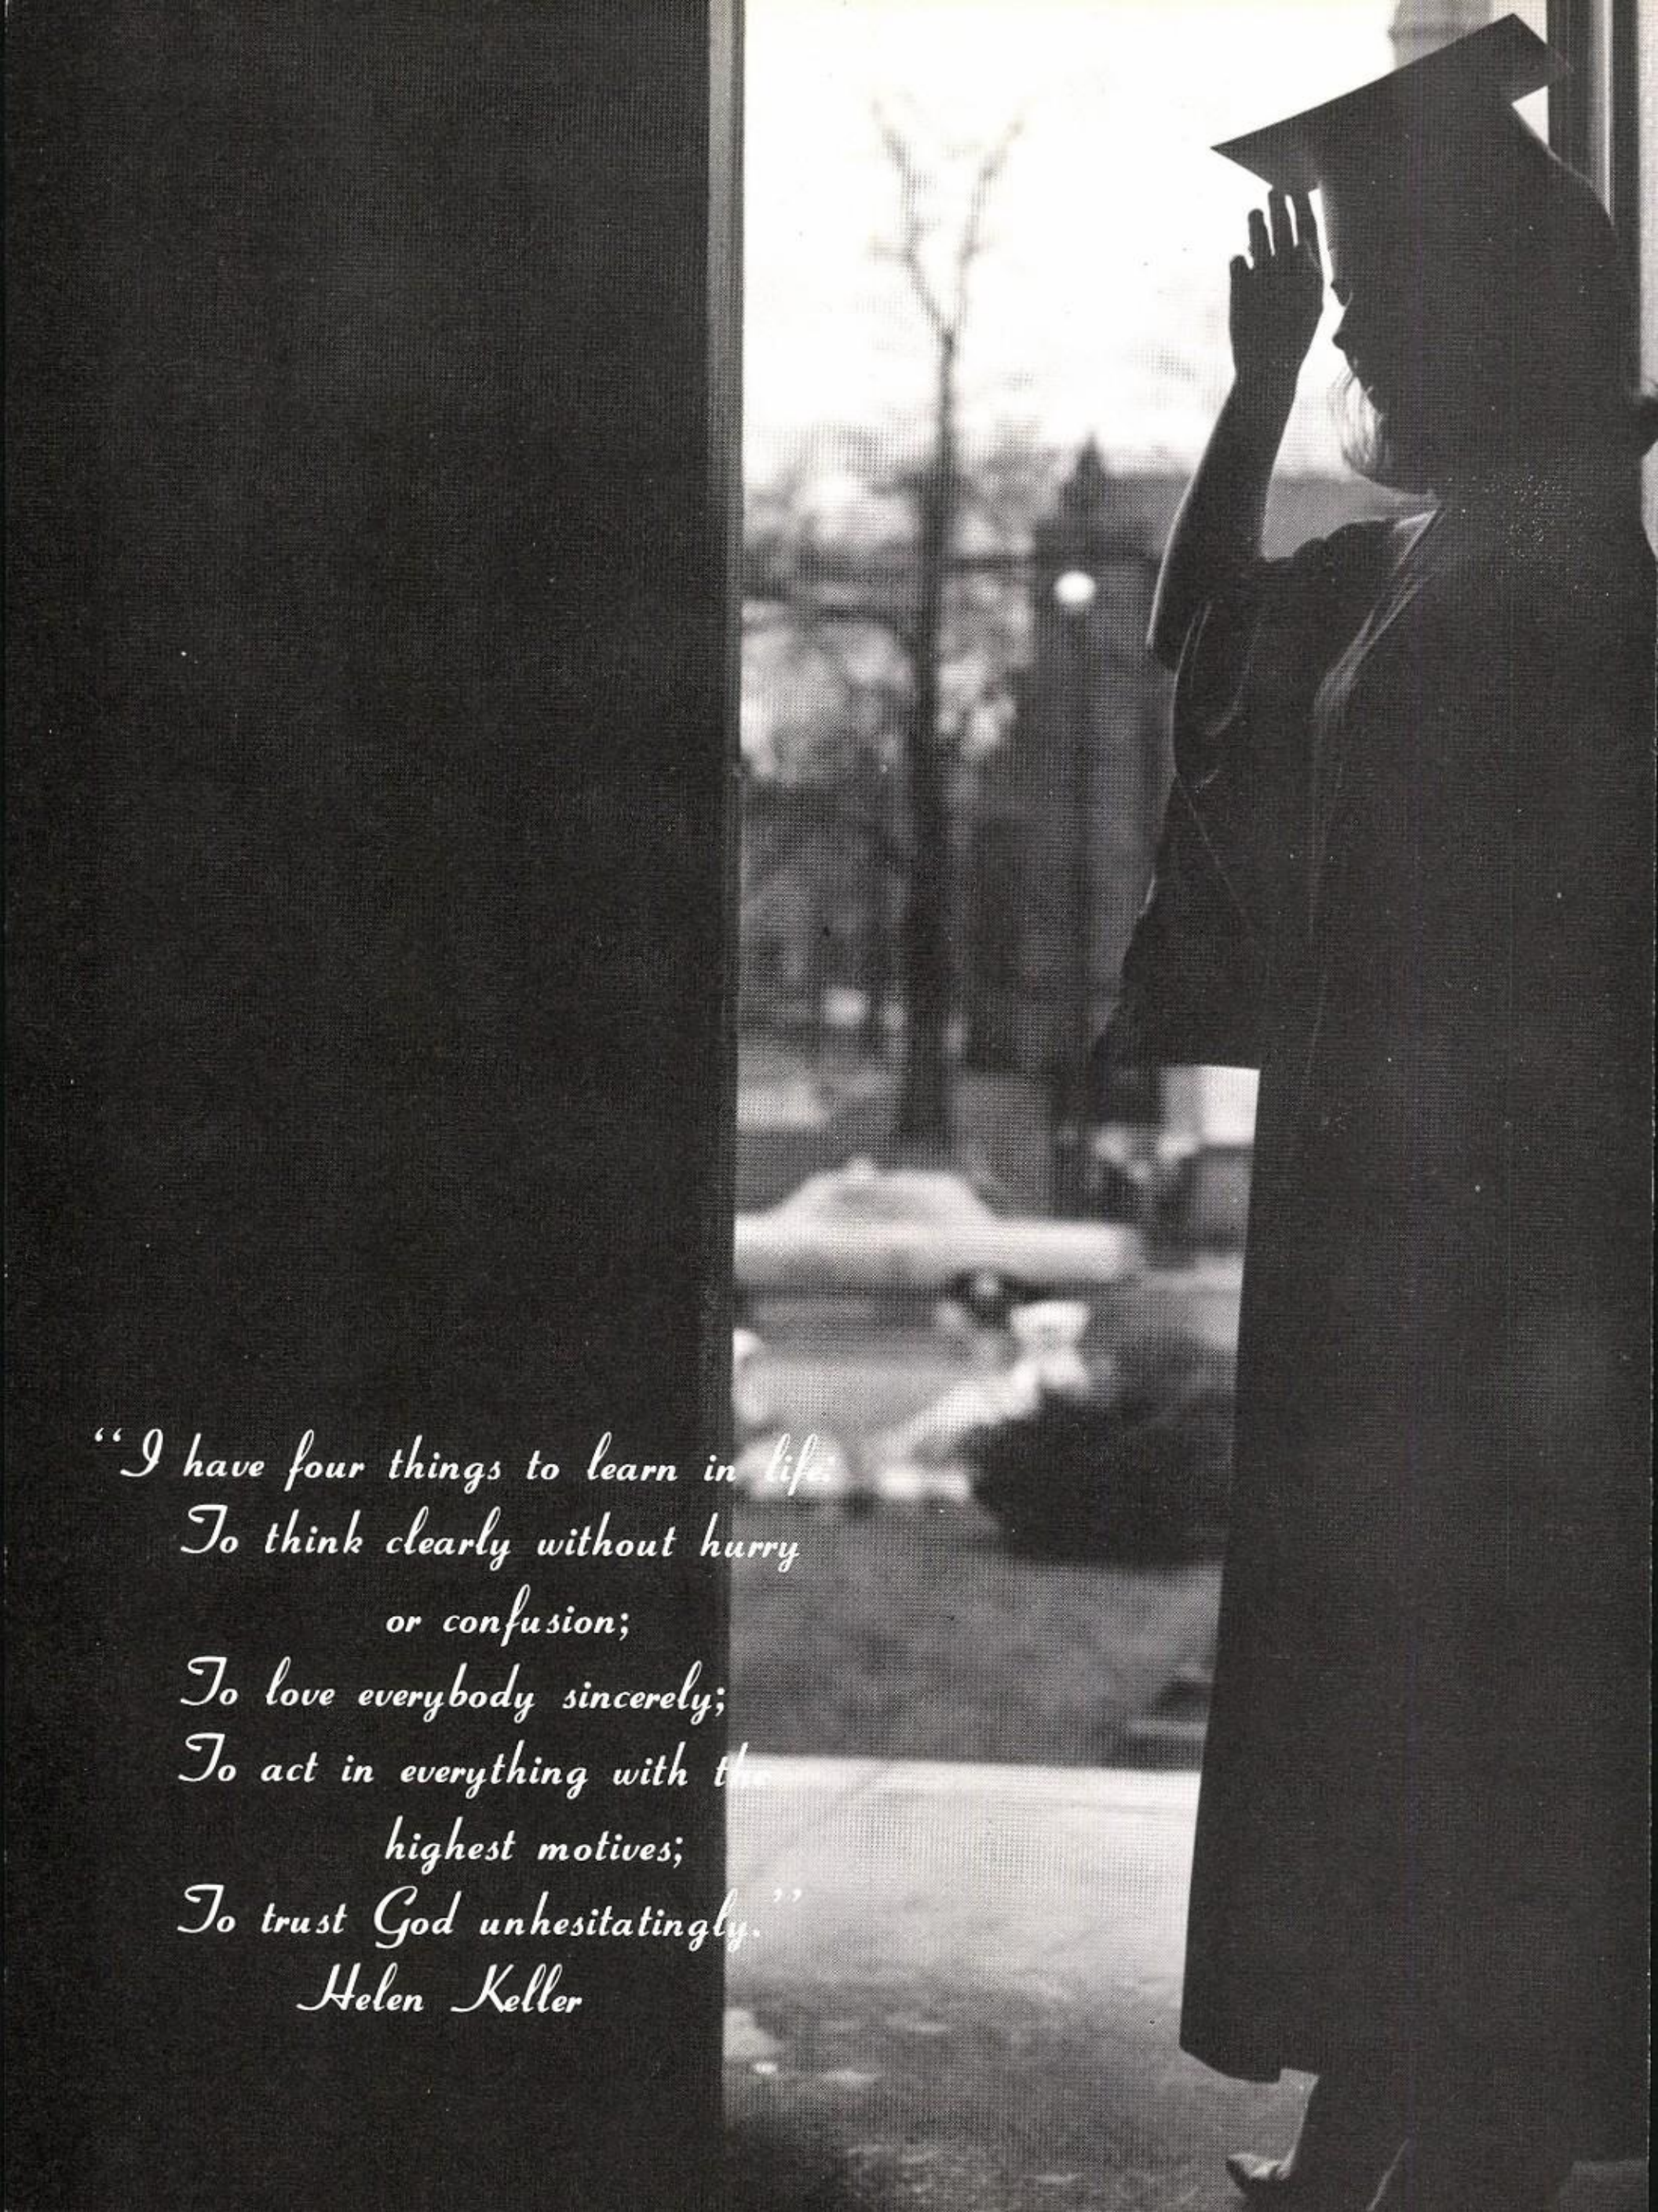

"Give up Bothwell, give up your throne if you'd have a life worth living."

"This trespass against God's right will be known. The nations will know it, mine and yours. They will see you as I see you and pull you down."

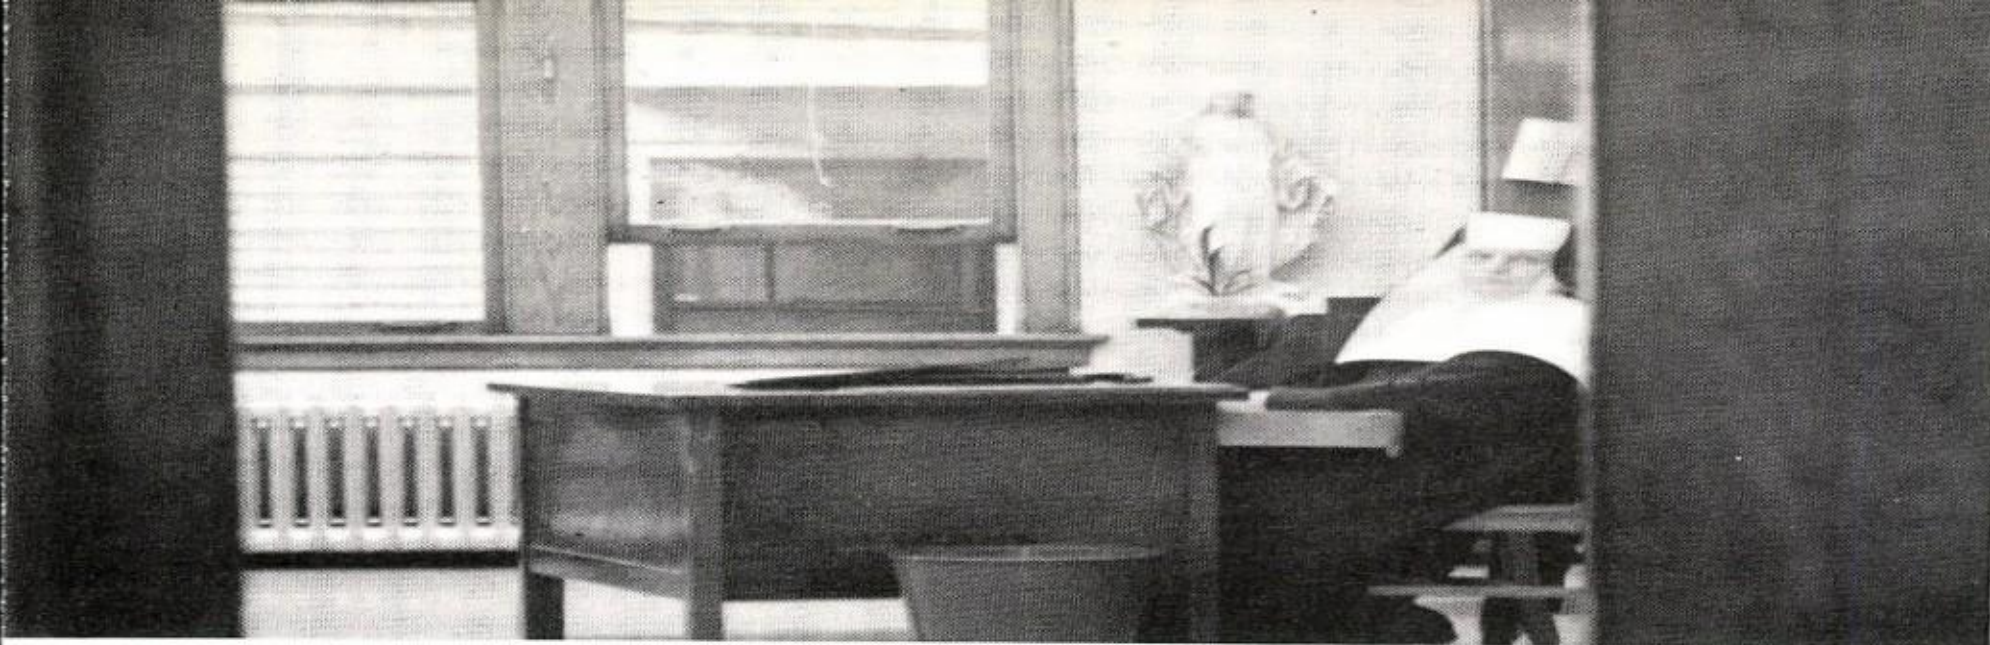

Maggie Brock as Mary, Queen of Scots, and her cast pose for a formal portrait. We are very proud of these girls who have won laurels for our school by their excellent performances. In the National Catholic Theatre Conference Drama Festival at John Carroll University, Maggie was awarded a bronze medal. In the Ohio High School Speech League, held at St. Ignatius High School, she was placed on the all-star cast. Her attendants are Darlene Logan and Laurie Smith, and Queen Elizabeth is played by Kathy Curilovic.

*"I have four things to learn in life:
To think clearly without hurry
or confusion;
To love everybody sincerely;
To act in everything with the highest motives;
To trust God unhesitatingly."
Helen Keller*

Seniors

A SENIOR is . . .

the crown and strength
of a school.

the setter of pace and style.

the idol of the freshman,
the envy of the sophomore, and the hope of the junior.

a dreamer of dreams and a defender of ideals.

a girl standing in the past with her heart in the future.

To be a senior is . . .

to have a mind adult enough to appreciate the subtleties of life.

to be excited and stimulated
by real learning.

to understand that life
will not always be easy or pleasant yet to face it with eager courage.

to believe that somewhere
there is a special personal sphere of service, and to hope to be worthy of that privilege.

to dream of a life filled
to capacity with love for God and man.

To be a senior is to have taken the first steps in transforming dreams into reality.

Carol Staskus, President of Les Filles Charmantes, awards Linda Jurcisek the title of Ursuline's Most Charming Girl for 1965.

New members of the National Honor Society pledge to uphold its high ideals.

Clubs Serve the School

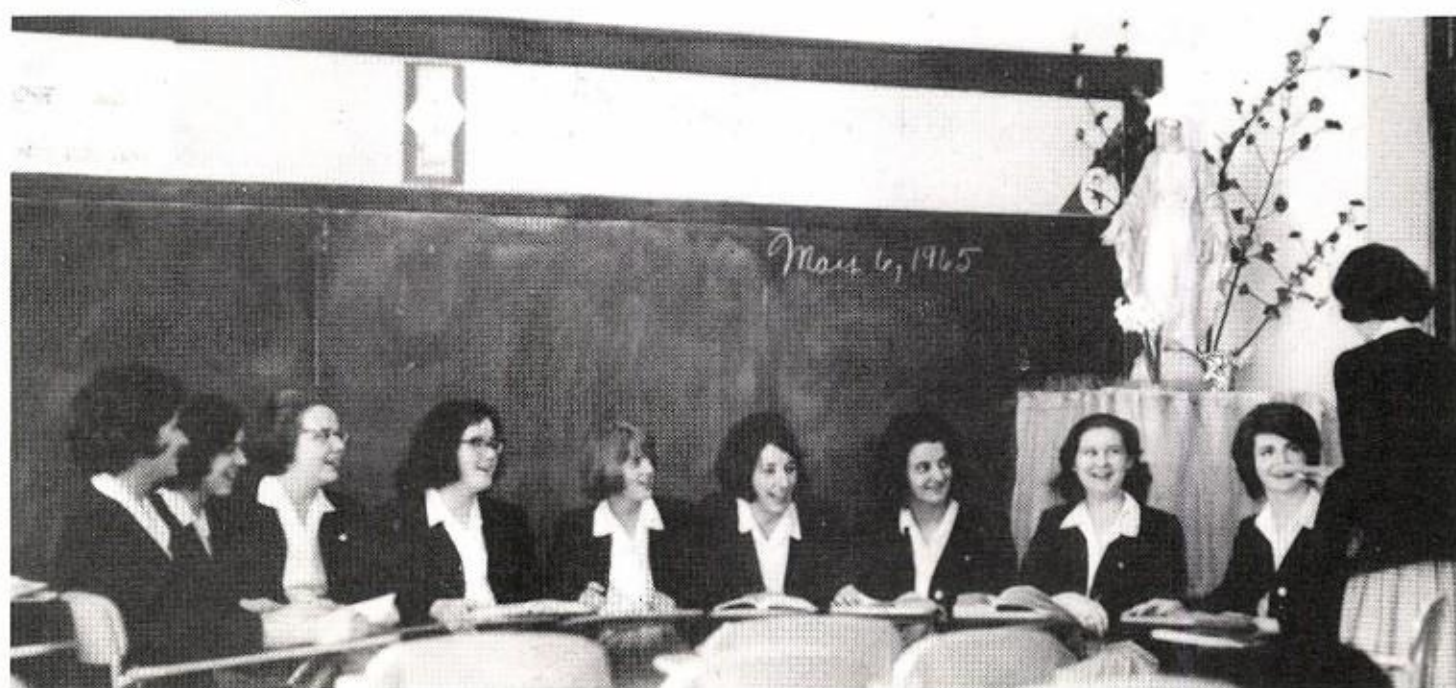

Art Club members, Linda, Cathy, and Paula silkscreen programs for the ring ceremony.

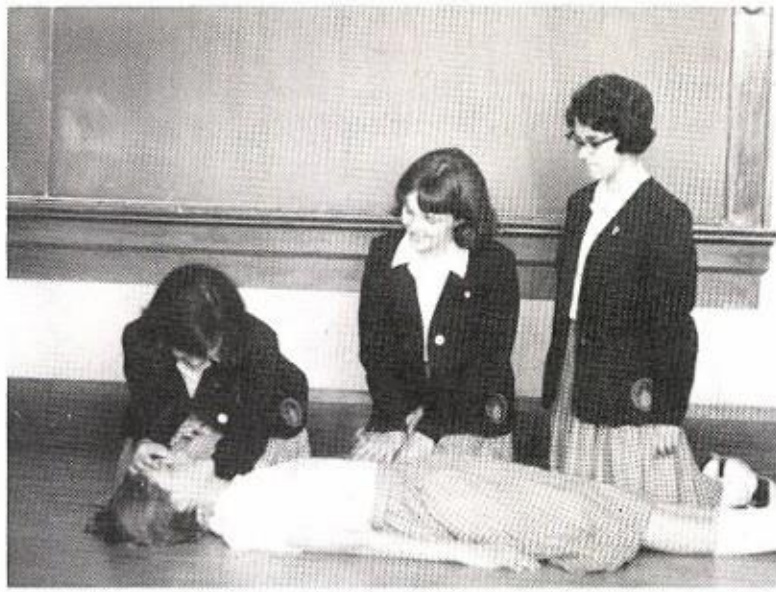

Mr. Clarence Leiblinger, President of the Dad's Club, presides over the annual banquet. Other Dads enjoy the annual Communion breakfast with their daughters.

Evidently the latest classic being discussed by the Great Books Club is an amusing one.

Carole dies stoically while the Red Cross strives to revive her.

Our Gym Leaders are high on the ladder to athletic achievement.

Sister Ambrose's first-grade artists demonstrate that talent is not always a matter of age. Future Teacher members who tried their project soon learned this.

One activity that appears on the calendar each spring is the Mission Club Carnival. Noel opens this year's fair with a bang as her antics collect both laughs and pennies.

One tired puppy finds comfort in Sister's care.

Joyce, Maureen, and Donna wish they could rescue him from his destiny — the raffle.

The carnival moderator dispenses raffle tickets and directions.

Pat and Noreen find handling that "pretzel" no easy job.

Clubs Discover Talent

"We still have half an hour until our term papers are due."

"Me and my teddy bear have no worries, have no cares."

"Oh so lovely sittin' absobloominlutely still."

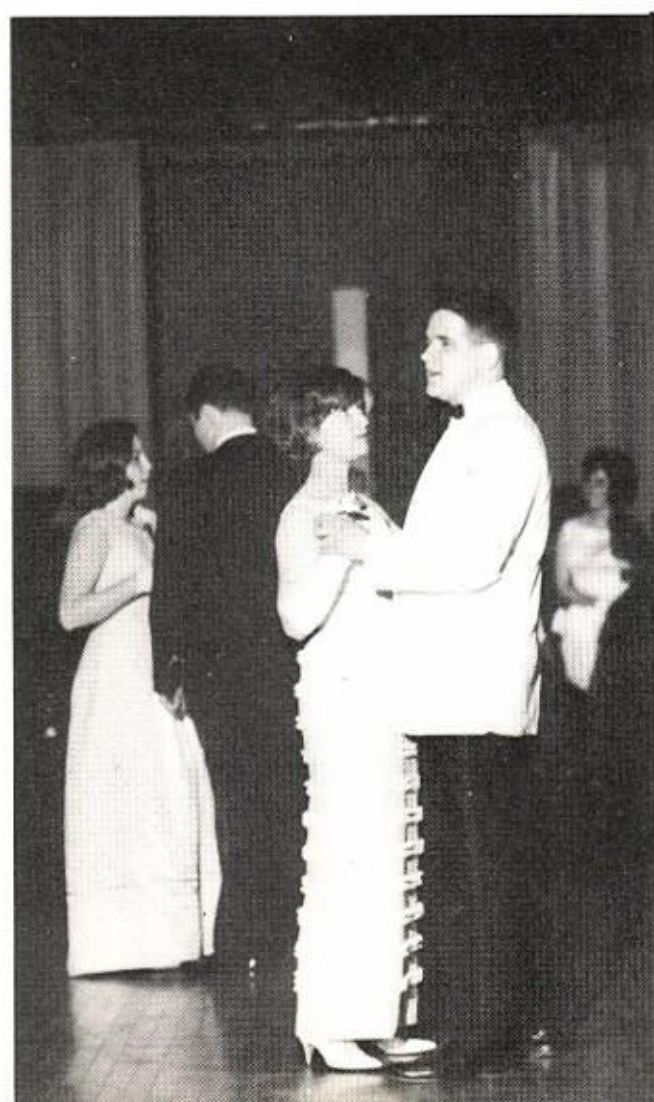

As the Showboat closes, the entire cast joins in the finale.

Our thanks to the Student Council who sponsored "Showboat."

A Southern mansion sets the background for the Senior Prom of 1965.

"Red Roses For A Blue Lady" creates a quiet mood for Marg and Tom.

Karen and Gary chat and dance as the prom comes to a glittering close.

Senior Prom Spells Enchantment

Judy Buehner bestows a queenly smile while Jo Ann Zgonc concentrates on the crown.

One queen crowns another.

Judy and Jo Ann lead the Grand March across the bridge.

Bob chose a daisy nosegay to add a bright touch of spring to Linda's evening.

Junior-Senior Banquet and Class Day

Senior President, Judy Buehner, extends her class's thanks to the Juniors for their delightful banquet.

Father D'Augustino shares the spotlight with Judy Buehner and Junior Class President, Pat Sbrocco.

Spotlighting Senior adventurers is Rosemary Conway.

Noel and Paula read the will and testament of the Senior Class.

As the auditorium darkens, Dorothy and her classmates are transported to the year 1980.

I don't know, Maggie, I thought the food was rather good.

Pat Sbrocco welcomes the faculty and the Seniors.

Mary, Gloria, Pat, and Maggie attend Class Day Mass.

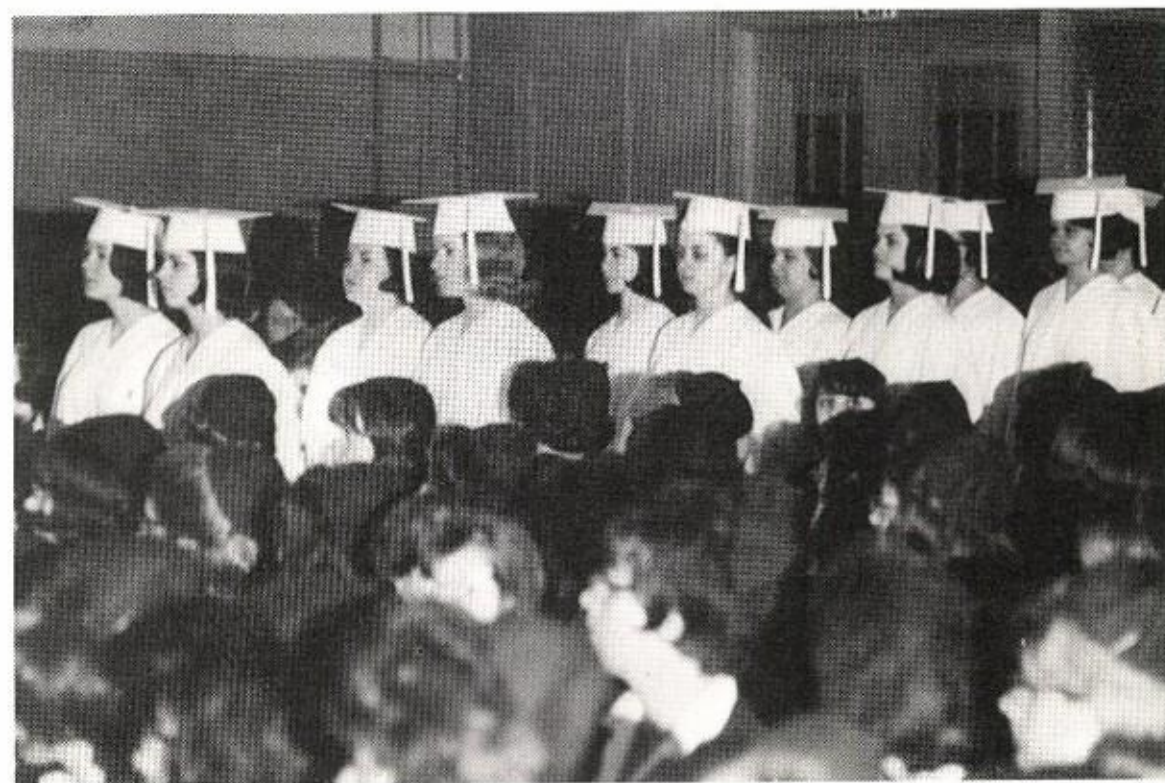

This year's graduating class holds a special interest for Father Padavick — his sister Pat.

Caps and gowns — status symbols.

Christ comes to the graduate.

Class Day begins with the Senior procession.

Saint John's College Scholarships: Mary O'Brien, in Nursing; Maria Privitera, Pat McGuire, and Judy Petschauer, in Education.

Paula Crowley and Judy Ritley: Winners in the National Poetry Association Contest.

Linda Jurcisek, Paula Recko, Carol Roche, and Beth Brutvan: Winners of certificates in the Catholic Art Festival.

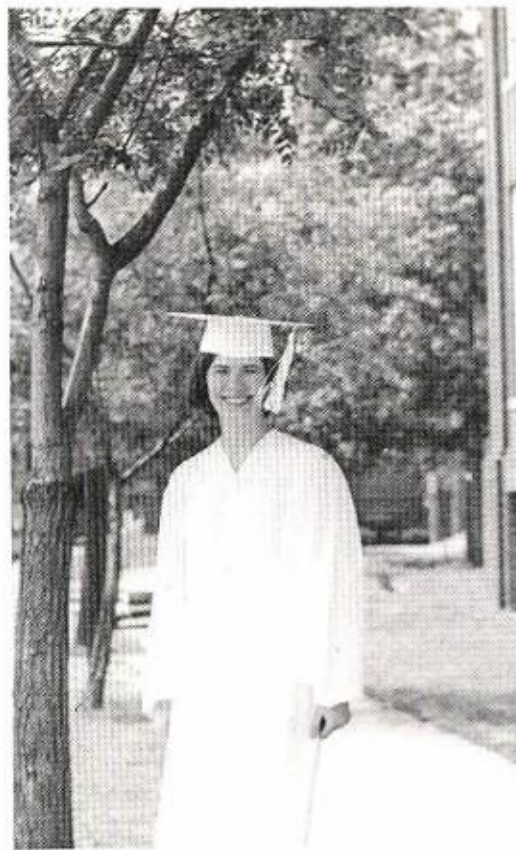

Maggie Brock: Recipient of two National Drama Festival awards.

Recognition for Outstanding Seniors

Frances and Lucille Bertino were honored for their volunteer work by the Welfare Federation. Both have received scholarships to Charity Hospital.

Laurelynn Smith won a first-place award from the National Council of Teachers of English.

A scholarship to the University of Pittsburgh was granted to Paula Burke.

The following girls have been awarded scholarships to Ursuline College: Patricia McGreevy, Elizabeth Hofman, Beverly LoGrasso, Patricia McGreehan, Judith Ritley, Margaret Lyons, and Sandra Ridgeway.

Senior Song

We understand
The time is near for us to go and leave you here;
It's over now but it was grand,
We understand.
Times were good and times were bad,
We've shared four years and now we're sad;
We're leaving soon, the month is June,
We understand.
We'll miss you so, please believe us when we tell you.
Our hearts will break when we have to go,
you know.
Although we leave, we won't forget
The friends we've had, the girls we've met.
We'll go our way, our hearts will stay
At Sacred Heart.

Graduation

For Mary Ann and Eileen graduation isn't all tears.

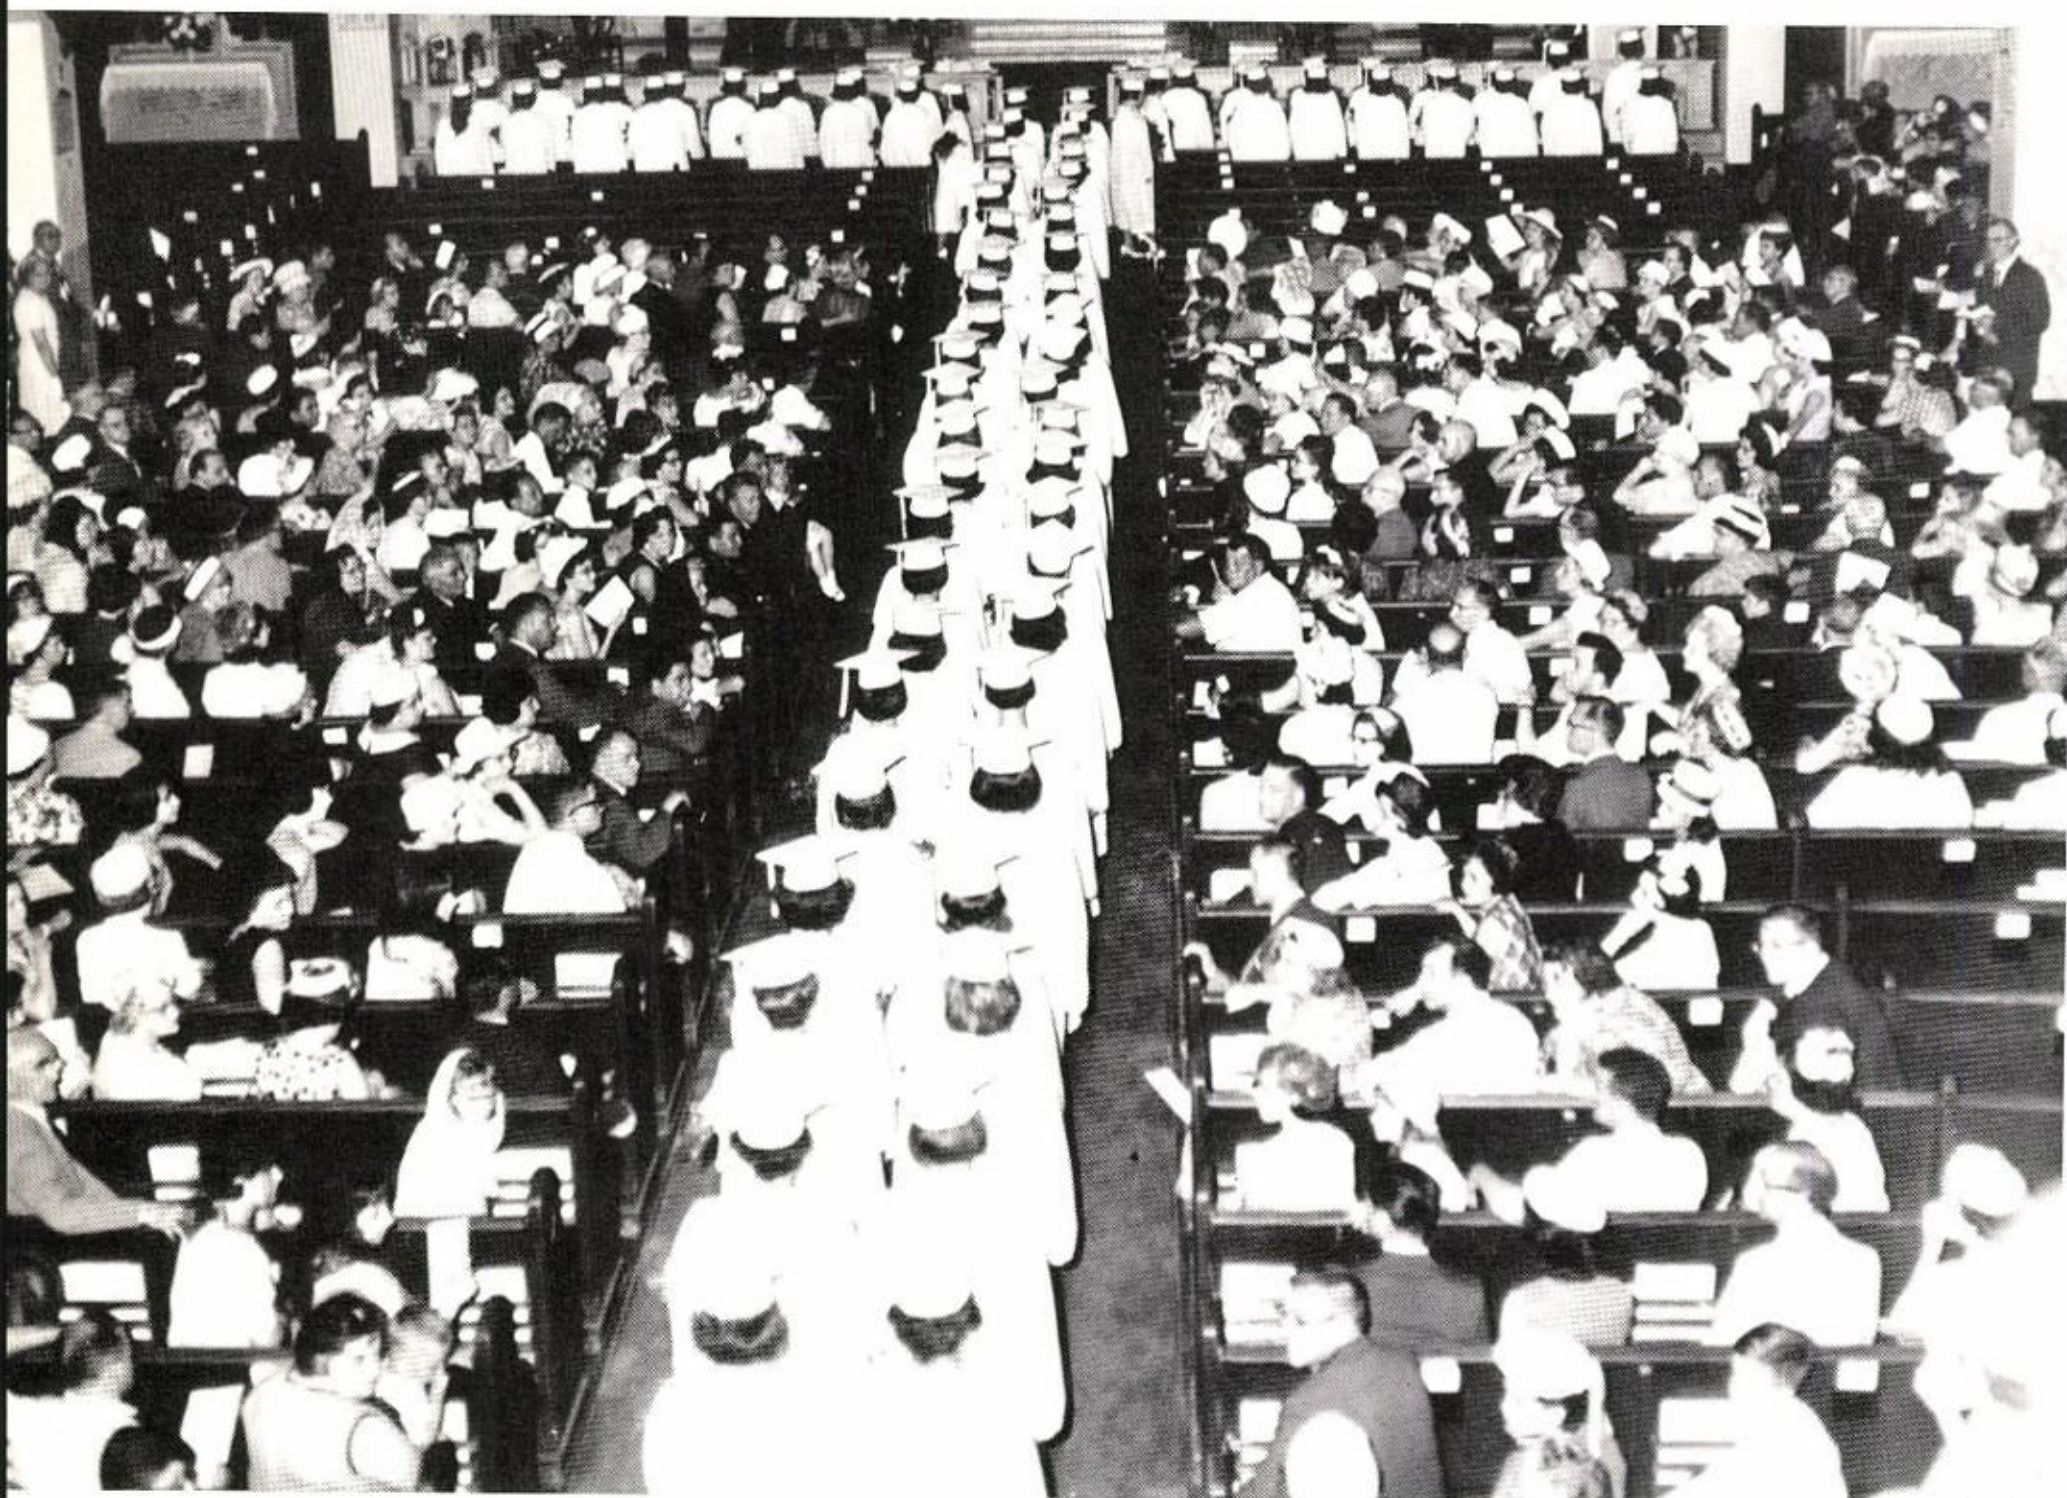

High school offers no higher step, Maria.

Judy and Jo Ann lead us — as always.

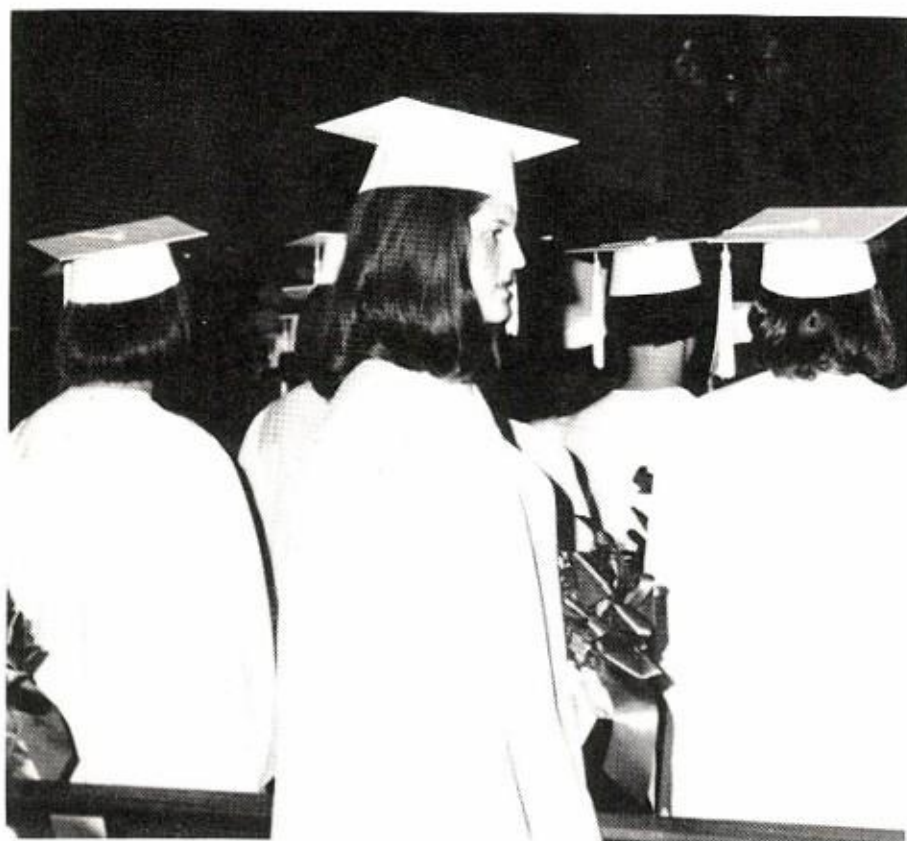

Ursuline girls stop traffic.

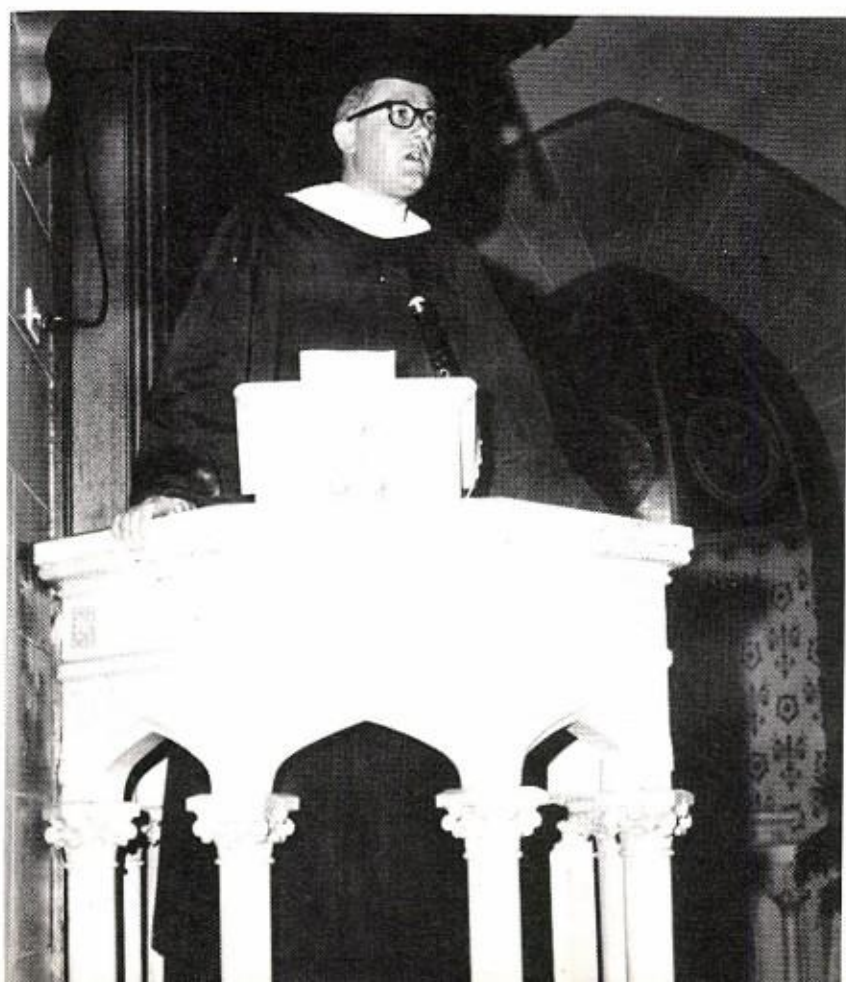

The class of '65 marches together in their last class function.

Mary Pat Bynane presents the profile of a graduate.

Father Padavick urges future adult citizens to strive for excellence.

Commencement

Seniors sing "Veni Angela" as a farewell to four years at Ursuline.

Kathy Flanagan eagerly receives her diploma from Monsignor O'Donnell.

"May the Good Lord bless and keep you 'till we meet again."

Post graduates are congratulated by friends and relations.

To be on a business staff is . . .
to organize and plan.

to campaign and advertise.

to test class spirit and find it steadfast in crisis.

how to learn how painful
is the acquisition of funds.

to learn to please all sorts of people.

to worry and fret.

to type and retype.

to know the accomplishment
of hard work.

to thrill to the knowledge that out of turmoil has been born the "best yearbook ever."

The Bride — So Beautiful in Her Chesshire Portrait

A vision of loveliness . . . the inner glow of you,
 the bride, subtly dramatized in your breathtaking bridal portrait by CHESSHIRE. Our gifted artists are specialists in bridal portraiture, in unforgettable formal photographs and candid pictures.

HIGBEE-CHESSHIRE STUDIO
 Official Photographers
 for Ursuline Academy of the Sacred Heart

In endeavoring to serve, we have been served. Our gratitude goes out to so many:

To Mr. James Parkinson for taking pride in Perspective '65.
To Chesshire Studios and Mr. James O'Donnell.
To our patrons in the hope they will enjoy this book that they made possible.
To the underclassmen for their individual support.
To the Seniors for wanting a yearbook and proving it.
To Sister Mary Ellen for her patient help.
To Sister Frances Therese, one great big Thank You package tied with memories.
To all the Faculty for their interest and support, which have been an unending source of encouragement.

Marg and Judy

*"It enlarges the self to know great art,
to have felt the spell of epic heroisms,
to have swung to the rhythmic pulse
of Homer's strophes,
to have shaken to the passion of Roland or Romeo or Francis of Assisi . . .
to have heard the roll of Drake's drum,
to have been borne on the music stream
of Beethoven's symphonies,
to engrave the prologue to John's Gospel
on the heart,
to have said the sonorous, searching affirmations
of the Nicene Creed."*

Phillips Endicott Osgood
